WIND SWEEPS SOUTHLAND

Bearing out the truth of the old saying, "Tis an ill wind that blows nobody good," the desert wind that swept down on Orange county last night knocked a considerable quantity of frozen fruit from the trees, thus saving the expense of handling the oranges in the packages houses the coming season.

No serious damage has resulted to Orange county crops as a result of the present wind, it was said today. According to Farm Advisor Harold Wahlberg, the value of windbreaks in protecting trees was again demonstrated in the present wind storm. Some fruit is being scarred but the wind is not particularly drying it was said.

Mercury Rises
Forecaster L. H. Daingerfield said the winds which are sweeping all parts of the Southland were due to a sudden drop in the atmospheric pressure over Arizona. The temperature rose nine points here last night because of the wind, being 53 at 8 p. m. and 62 at 9 p. m.

According to a United Press report from Los Angeles, the high winds caused several injuries. A large cedar tree crashed through the roof of a two story house in Pasadena and slightly injured a sleeping boy, Kenishi Hamane, 3 years of age. Lys, Russian actress, was knocked down by a 250 foot acacia tree blown down at Warner Brothers movie studio.

Driver Blinded
Robert Walker, 10, son of a Hollywood policeman, was run over by an automobile as he ran across the street in a dust whirlwind that blinded the motorist. The wind reached a maximum of 46 miles an hour briefly in Santa Monica. Hundreds of trees were blown, damaging parked automobiles. The 75 foot flagpole before the Pasadena postoffice snapped and crashed down across the trolley wires on Colorado street. Windows in the skyscraper Los Angeles city hall and elsewhere throughout the southland were broken.

Boats In Trouble
Small boats were in trouble off the coast. Coast guardsmen were searching for Deloy Hudson, 25, of Santa Monica, missing in a 16 foot fishing boat. His wife kept vigil at the end of the Santa Monica pier.

High winds whipped the outside rows of orange groves in the Riverside district and were feared to have caused heavy damage to fruit, especially in the higher sections.

Much fruit was blown from the trees in this area. The roof of the Hanson Lumber company building at Riverside was blown off and carried on to the tracks of the Union Pacific railroad, blocking traffic for some time. Power and electric lines were down in the Mira Loma section of the city.

Urges Labor Representation

LANSING, Mich., Feb. 16.—(UP)—Guy Hack, who spent 25 years as a machinist in the Reo Motor factory before he was elevated to the company's board of directors, proposed today that every automobile firm include a labor representative on its board.

Hack also is president of the Reo unit of the United Automobile Workers Union.

General Motors, Chrysler and the rest of them should elect a union representative to their boards," Hack said. "It would lead to better relations and solution of mutual problems by labor and industry."

Former Southland Senator Called

TURLOCK, Cal., Feb. 16.—(UP)—A. A. Caldwell, 70, former state senator from Riverside, died in a hospital here this morning. He had been ill for three weeks from a heart ailment.

Caldwell was the son of Edwin Caldwell, a prominent figure in early California mining history.

He was a founder of the Turlock Gas company, and one time state grand commander of Knights Templar, and active in state Republican circles.

He is survived by his widow and a son.

French Air Mission Given FDR'S Backing

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—(UP)—Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau, jr., told the Senate military affairs committee today that government aid to a French air mission in purchasing American military planes was given "at the request of the President."

It was revealed that Gen. Malin Craig, army chief of staff, objected to the government's part in the French purchases on two grounds, but that he was overruled by "higher-up."

Second Appearance
Sen. Warren A. Austin, R., Vt., made the disclosure to newspapermen after Morgenthau and Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring appeared for the second time to testify in the committee's inquiry into presence of a French air ministry official aboard an experimental bombing plane that crashed recently on the Pacific coast.

Austin said that Morgenthau had agreed to have the committee make his previous testimony public with certain deletions. This testimony, Austin said, shows that Morgenthau was questioned vigorously by Sen. Robert R. Reynolds, D., N. C., concerning the treasury's part in the French negotiations.

FDR'S Request
Reynolds was disclosed to have said that he considered the matter "extremely important," and Morgenthau replied:

"I thought I made it plain that we did it at the request of the President."

Further questions brought from Morgenthau the reply: "The President asked us to do it."

Austin said Craig testified he did not favor cooperation with the French mission because:

1—It might interfere with this country's own airplane procurement program.

2—It might entirely deprive this country of the type of

JAPAN, RUSSIA IN FISHERIES DISPUTE

TOKYO, Feb. 16.—(UP)—Japanese Ambassador Shigenori Togo at Moscow has been instructed to seek a showdown on the Siberian fisheries dispute in which Japan and Russia have been deadlocked for weeks, it was understood today.

Togo was ordered to inform Maxim Litvinov, Russian foreign commissar, that Japan was prepared to take drastic action unless an accord was reached, it was understood.

The newspaper Asahi, of independent liberal tendencies, asserted that Russia would be informed that Japan was determined to continue fishing off the Russian coast and that the Russian government must accept responsibility in the event fishing without a formal agreement is inaugurated under armed protection.

Situation Acute
As Arita sent his instructions today, Jean Jourba, second secretary of the Russian embassy, was called to Moscow, leaving only Constantine Smetanin, charge d'affaires, and second secretary Peter Arunov to face the threatened fisheries crisis.

It was indicated that an acute situation was in prospect. Not only have Russian and Japanese Manchukuan patrols clashed numerous times during recent weeks on the Siberian frontier, but only two days ago in parliament there was a full dress debate in which members resolved that the government must take drastic action, even by force if necessary, to safeguard Japanese interests.

Huge Clipper In Long Test Flight

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 16.—(UP)—Pan American Airways' new 74-passenger Boeing clipper which is destined for transpacific service was making a theoretical flight to Honolulu today in preparation for its first over-ocean cruise.

Under command of Captain W. A. Clute, Clipper 18 traversed a triangular course south to San Diego and return in two trips requiring 16 hours continuous flying over a total distance equal to that of the run from San Francisco to Honolulu.

It was the longest test flight the clipper has yet taken, a distance of 2400 miles.

BLACK CAT MYTH NOT SILLY

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 16.—(UP)—W. G. Benton and James E. Spragging volunteered to take a black cat for a ride in their car just to prove that it was silly superstition about black cats being bad luck.

The car crashed into a telephone pole. Benton and Spragging were taken to the hospital. The black cat leaped from the wreckage unharmed.

URGES CARE IN POPE VOTE

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 16.—(UP)—The Nazi German ambassador to the Vatican, Dr. Diego Von Bergen, addressing the congregation of cardinals, paid the highest tribute to the late Pope Pius XI today "for his courageous defense of the church at all times."

He said the Sacred College "has a great responsibility in electing a successor worthy of Pope Pius, because of the present political situation" and that "everyone hopes this evolution will be carried out peacefully."

Cites Statesmanship
Von Bergen made the address as dean of the Vatican diplomatic corps, which was received in solemn audience in the consistorial hall. The diplomats came specifically to extend condolences on the Pontiff's death. Forty cardinals were present.

Von Bergen, whose country's strained relations with the Vatican were one of Pope Pius' deepest sorrows, said that the Pope's statesmanship had been demonstrated by the Lateran accord which restored temporal power to the Popes.

Cardinal Gennaro Granito Pignatelli Di Belmonte, dean of cardinal-bishops, thanked the diplomatic corps in behalf of the church.

Prior to the reception, the congregation of cardinals held a general meeting to discuss preparations for the conclave to elect a new Pontiff. It was announced that today's arrivals from various parts of Europe would increase the number of cardinals present to 45.

Earlier in the morning, the fifth funeral service of the Novendialis series was held at St. Peter's, with Sgr. Giuseppe Migone, the late Pontiff's secret almoner, officiating.

THIRD COLD WAVE OF YEAR STRIKES

By United Press
Midwesterners shivered today in the winter's third severe cold wave while eastern states struggled against floods, fog and heavy rains following a severe windstorm that swept the coast from Georgia to New England.

Some cities reported the coldest weather of the winter. Bemidji, Minn., reported a temperature of 43 degrees below zero and other Minnesota and North Dakota points registered between 30 and 40 below.

Forecast Storm
U. S. Forecaster H. A. Downs predicted rain or snow over most sections of the northwestern areas today with a gradual rise in temperatures. Cloudy and colder weather was expected generally throughout eastern states.

The storm which battered the coast was centered today over northern New England. It reached a peak force of 65 miles an hour in New York and caused one death at New Brunswick, N. J. Two persons were killed at Pinos, Ala.

Homes Wrecked
The gales swept along the southern seaboard from Georgia,

Engineer Honored At Convention

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—(UP)—Louis Shattuck Gates, copper mining engineer and president of the Phelps Dodge Corporation, was awarded the William Lawrence Saunders medal for distinguished achievement in mining, at the annual dinner of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, last night.

The award, the highest in the mining engineering profession was "for signal accomplishment in the conception and application of superior mining technique and in the organization and administration of major mining and metallurgical enterprises."

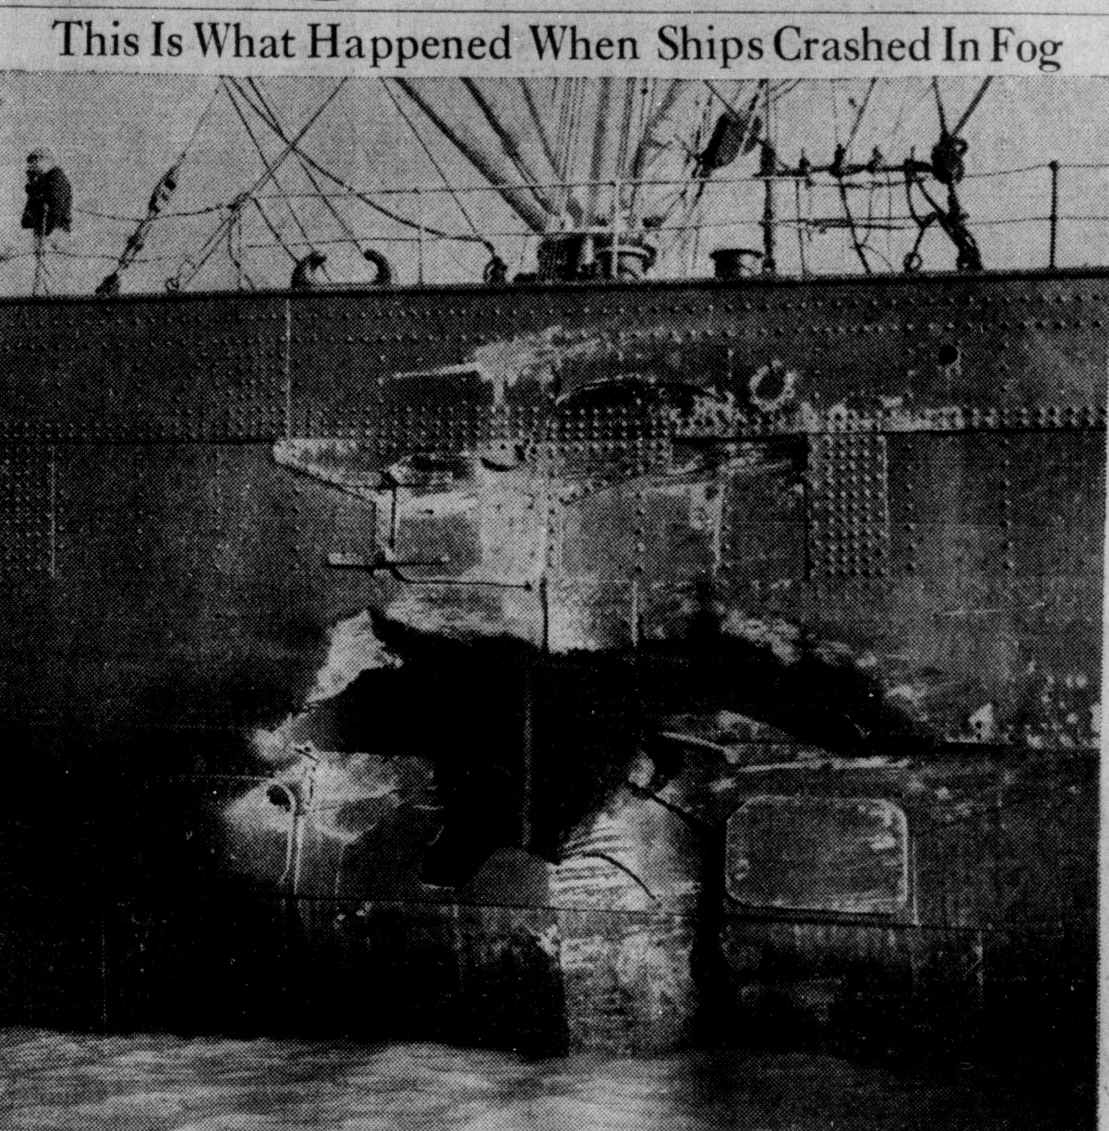

The presentation was made in the presence of prominent engineers, including former President Herbert Hoover. Gates was named Chevalier of the Legion of Honor by the French government last week.

Fire Sweeps Quebec Asylum

QUEBEC, Feb. 16.—(UP)—A fire at the Beaufort Insane asylum previously believed under control broke out anew in another section of the institution and was reported to be spreading rapidly at noon today.

One patient was reported to have died in a fall while trying to escape from the burning building. A fireman was also injured. The asylum houses 2000 insane.

AFL, CIO Mass Workers As Fight Looms At Project

Despite this gaping hole torn in her side by a collision south of the Golden Gate, the American-Hawaiian freighter Virginian kept its pumps going and limped into San Francisco harbor with 36 persons aboard. The Virginian and the Solana crashed in a dense fog.

British Launch New "Diplomatic Offensive;" Reveal New Policies

LONDON, Feb. 16.—(UP)—A decision to recognize the Spanish Nationalist government, the speeding up of a gigantic rearmament program and reported preparations for closest cooperation with France marked the start today of a major British diplomatic offensive.

It was indicated that in the four and a half months since the Munich conference, when the democratic powers had to agree to the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia as the price of European peace, the British government, moving slowly and cautiously but with considerable determination, had perfected its diplomatic plans and was ready for action on them.

Recognize Franco
The new policy seemed to be to recognize the apparently certain victory of the Nationalists; to persuade the Nationalists to send Italian and German troops home; to cooperate more closely with France than at any time since the world war; to exert every effort to overtake Germany in armaments.

As regards the expected Italian claim for satisfaction of "aspirations" at France's expense in the Mediterranean, the policy, worked out with France, seemed to be to agree to no territorial concessions.

The rapid development of Britain's post-Munich policy was shown yesterday by a series of apparently disconnected, but

BATTLE OVER JURISDICTION

REDDING, Cal., Feb. 16.—(UP)—American Federation of Labor workers started six trucks to work today and massed 400 men at the scene of the Shasta dam railroad relocation project while in nearby Central Valley the Congress of Industrial Organizations called together 500 members in a mass meeting.

John Wiese, secretary of the CIO Mine, Mill and Smelting Union, said the CIO would accede to Gov. Culbert L. Olson's request that violence be avoided, but added significantly:

"If sufficiently provoked, there's no telling what may happen."

All CIO men available were ordered to meet at Central Valley when it was learned the AFL reopened the project, where work has been suspended a fortnight in a bitter test of AFL-CIO strength. Central Valley is 23 miles from the scene of the work.

Wiese said he telephoned Col. L. J. Murray of the California National Guard, who has been in Redding in an effort to bring about a peaceful settlement of the dispute. Wiese said Murray told him he would go immediately to Delta and ask the AFL to stop work at once. Murray could not be reached at Redding, it was supposed he was en route to the project.

The AFL sent six trucks to work hauling gravel this morning and had 400 men standing by as observers in spite of an announcement by the contractor, United Concrete Pipe company of Los Angeles, that work would be suspended indefinitely.

A temporary order restraining the CIO from "coercing AFL workers, interfering with work and from patrolling highways adjacent to the disputed project" was obtained by the AFL last night. Made returnable Feb. 21, it was granted by Superior Judge Elbert F. Ross.

In announcing that the CIO would accede to the governor's wishes to avoid violence, Wiese did not mention the injunction. He said all CIO men would stand by today, but declined to state what action might follow.

While the dispute waxed hotter at the scene of the railroad relocation, which employs only 24 men, all projects employing AFL labor at the Shasta dam were suspended as the union membership surged to Delta. Reports persisted here that 300 AFL men from Westwood were on hand at Pollock, six miles from Delta, in case an "emergency" arises.

In Redding attempting to placate the workers were Murray and State Senator Jesse W. Carter, representing Governor Olson. Carter conferred with the contractor until long after midnight today and came from the meeting with the assurance no attempt would be made to start work, he said.

The controversy began two weeks ago when, observers said the CIO attempted to null contracts existing between the contractors and the AFL. Despite a previously signed AFL contract the CIO maintains it holds a 2 to two majority and demands that the National Labor Relations board call an election to determine which union rightfully should have jurisdiction.

PICTURES TELL HOW NEW POPE WILL BE ELECTED

Guarding Entrance to Voting Chapel

Attendants attached to the Marshal of Council guard the sealed door behind which the College of Cardinals meets in Vatican City to elect a new Pope. A full College is composed of 70 cardinals, but each has reduced membership to about 65. The cardinals are placed under lock and key while in conclave, a practice dating back to a papal bull of Pope Gregory X in 1270. Each of the cardinals is allowed two secretaries, who serve as his agents in negotiations. The conclave begins in the evening of the days between the 15th and 18th day following the Pope's death.

Where the New Pope Is Named

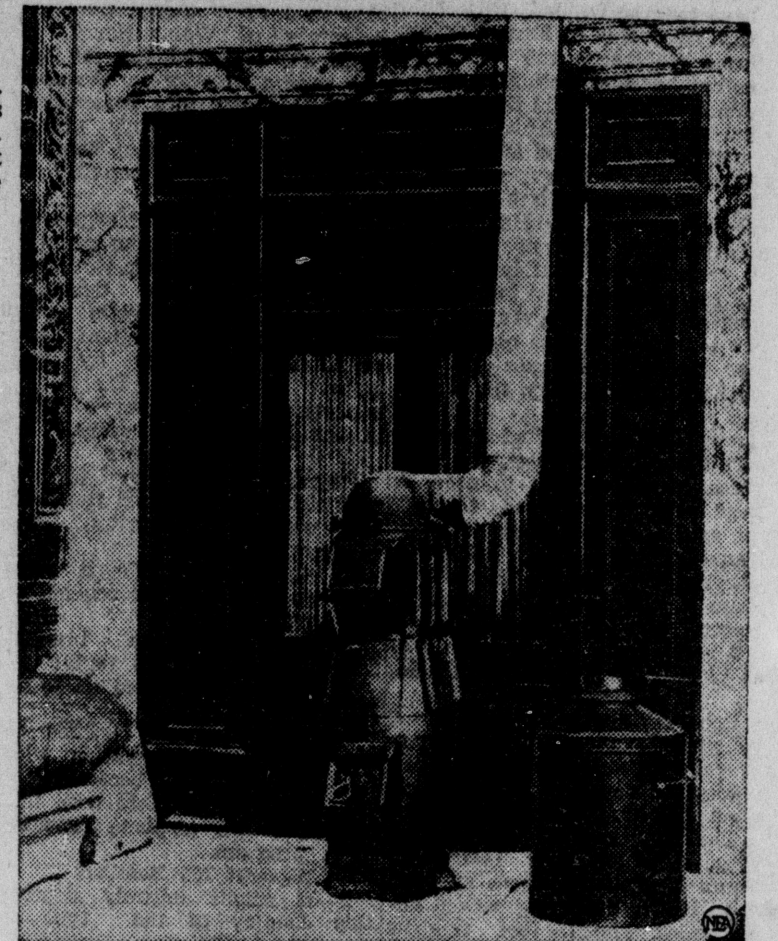

Balloting takes place in the Sistine Chapel, above, and is held twice a day—morning and evening. When one of the cardinals has received a two-thirds majority, has accepted the office, and selected his papal name, canopies are removed from all the cardinals' chairs except that of the pope-elect, as shown. The new pope is taken to another room and vested in the garb of his position. After receiving first homage from the other cardinals, he steps onto a balcony overlooking St. Peter's Square. Then the world knows his identity for the first time.

The Official Ballot

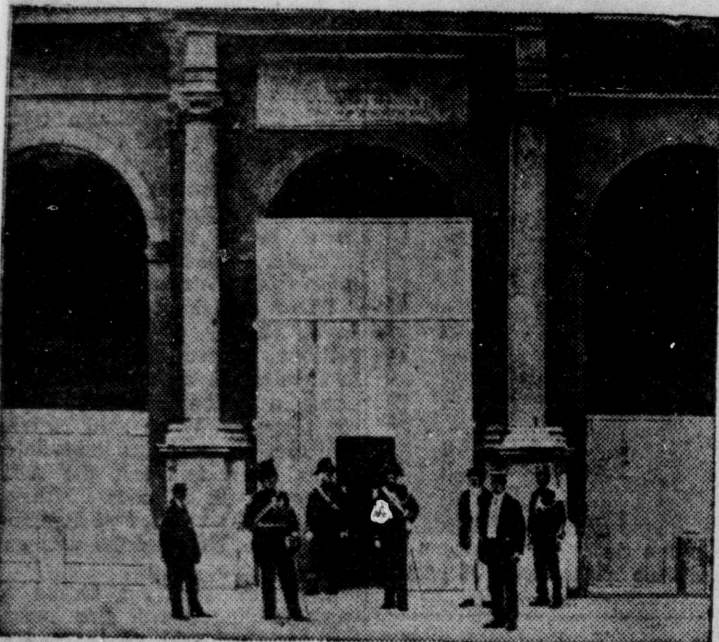

Each cardinal writes his choice for Pope in the center of the above ballot form, on which is a Holy Scriptures text identifying the ballot as his. The ballots are deposited in a chalice on the altar. Three cardinals, called "scrutatores," do the counting.

Signals-Result to Waiting World

A smoke signal from this stove announces election result to those outside. If sufficient majority to elect has been obtained, ballots only are burned, sending white smoke through chimney. If not, straw is burned with the ballots, making black smoke.

Barricaded Papal Residence

All entrances to the Pope's living quarters and apartments are guarded up and closely guarded until the election has been completed. This photo shows sentries before a heavily barricaded doorway in St. Peter's courtyard.

Cardinal's Voting Quarters

This cell-like room in the Vatican is occupied by a cardinal during the election. Each cell is numbered and numbers are drawn by lot. Windows are walled to prevent signalling to the outside. Meals are passed through a wicket.

They Feed Electorate

In temporary kitchens, like that shown above, attendants prepare meals for the cardinals. Servants, physicians, confessors, other attendants are appointed by a special commission, sworn to secrecy, and locked within the Vatican.

CERTIFICATION BILL APPROVED

The Orange County Tuberculosis and Health association, Inc., went on record this week, in regular monthly meeting, as endorsing Assembly bill 747 (Senate bill 630), proposed legislation submitted at this session of the legislature.

Measure Studied

"The organization gave serious thought to the bill which proposes the creation of a department of certification of social workers for the State of California, so that all social workers, meeting certain qualifications, could be certified," stated Mrs. Mabel Dixon, Santa Ana, one of the directors.

"It is of utmost importance that social workers, who assist in the spending of our enormous relief expenditures, be qualified and capable workers. It seems obvious that certification should be required of social workers, particularly when we consider how intimately their work affects the life and welfare of our employed, aged and unfortunate, including the tuberculous."

Mrs. Dixon urged all individuals or organizations wishing more information or wishing to give their added endorsement to this legislation to contact Melma C. Patton of the State relief administration office, Santa Ana, phone 4444, who is chairman of the interpretation committee for Orange county of the Social Workers' Certification bill.

Other directors of the tuberculosis association present were: Mrs. Harry A. Weaver, Brea; Mrs. A. C. Rodabaugh, Buena Park; Mrs. Chas. K. Simpson, Garden Grove; Mrs. J. David, Laguna Beach; Mrs. Clara Berg, San Clemente; Mrs. Marg Ekberg, Seal Beach; Mrs. C. Phillips, Tustin, and Mrs. James M. Anderson, Mrs. W. Maxwell Burke, Dr. Margaret D. Baker, A. J. Cruickshank, R. Morgan, D. O., Mrs. Charles A. Iggis and Dr. K. H. Sutherland of Santa Ana.

So far there is no accepted legislation of the curious carvings scribbled on the sides of "Writing Rock" in Divide county, N. D.

COLLEGE NEWS

Opera Study Club
This week's meeting of the recently formed Opera Study group was held with Bruce Buell, 1725 West Eighth street, where the last act of "La Boheme" was subject of study among the junior collegians represented by the organization.

Jack Lighthart, president of the group, outlined the story of the opera, and the musical theme was analyzed and discussed as selections were played on the Victrola. At the March meeting, which will be with Charles Sayers, the study subject will be "Traviata."

Miss Myrtle Martin is faculty advisor of the group, and will offer full assistance in a plan under discussion, of staging an evening of operatic numbers some time in May, for the entertainment of all friends of the young people. Jack Lighthart as president, and Miss Vivian Stanley, secretary-treasurer, head the membership list which is limited to ten, and now comprises Mrs. Ruth Alden, the Misses Edna Walker, Betty Hellums, Margaret Elmsner, Charlotte Stafford, Messrs. Horace Evans III, Charles Sayers and Bruce Buell.

Piloteers
Installation rites of Piloteers were held Monday evening with the new president, Miss Marjorie Vollmer, 2013 South Main street. Installed with Miss Vollmer were the Misses Elinor Clemons, vice president; June Swingle, secretary, and Anna Mae Archer, treasurer.

Piloteer rushees will be feted on February 22 at the home of Miss Clemons, 1100 North Main street. On the various committees are the Misses Anna Mae Archer, chairman, Adele George and Elinor Clemons, invitations; Anne St. Clair, chairman, Alma Mae Hiatt and June Swingle, entertainment; Phyllis Krock, chairman, Margaret Jaberger, Betty Marble and Gerry Peck, refreshments; Merle Swingle, Margaret Jaberger and Anna Mae Archer, transportation.

At the close of installation and party plans, Miss Vollmer served valentine refreshments.

Sisterhood of Spinsters
In addition to plans for their rush party to be held next week, members of Sisterhood of Spinsters gave much time to discussion of their approaching fashion revue and tea when they met with Miss Marian Adams in Newport Beach.

Most important of these revue plans was selection of spinsters to model the pretty frocks in Ebell clubhouse on Friday afternoon, February 24. Scouters and Adams' Sports shop will provide the costumes, and they will be modeled by the Misses Norma Daly, Bettie Timmons, Betty Gross, Marian Adams, Enid Benton, Margie Lee Brown, Lorraine Tarbox and Dorothy Davis.

Las Gitanas
Elected to the presidency of Las Gitanas for the second semester, Miss Gertrude Yount was installed Monday evening at candlelight rites held by the Junior Collegians in the Yount home, 2405 Valencia avenue, with Miss Maureen McClintock, new secretary, as co-hostess.

Installed with them were the Misses Nancy Cappelen, vice president; Ruth Lockett, treasurer, and Norma Bogart, historian. Former club officers conducting the rites included the Misses Wanda Todd, Justine Krock and Betty Bradley, an alumna member. A gardenia corsage was presented the new president. All the principals in the ceremonial rites wore graceful formal gowns. Plans for a rush party on February 22 at the McClintock home on Fairview road, indicate a gay dinner affair on the gypsy theme. Committee chairmen include the Misses Phyllis Johnson, entertainment; Jayne Nalle, dinner menu; Florence Nelson, transportation and Wanda Todd, invitations.

Following the business meeting was a social interval during which Mrs. C. E. Yount assisted the hostesses in serving tea, cakes and ice cream. Red sweet peas and white hyacinths with tall red tapers gave a pretty valentine effect. Club advisers present were the Misses Muriel Anderson and Sue Alexander, and members also welcomed two alumnae, the Misses Virginia Curry and Josephine Flaherty.

Las Meninas
Appointment of Miss Stella Christ as secretary to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Miss Eileen Gibbs was an important feature of Las Meninas meeting held Monday evening at the home of Miss Evelyn Myracle, 426 Lemon street, Orange.

In addition to rush party plans, Las Meninas intend to sponsor a series of matinee dances for the benefit of the jaycee student loan fund. Club activities during the annual penny fair were also discussed.

Following the business meeting, Miss Myracle served cocoa, cookies, and other refreshment.

Bachelors
New members of the Bachelors will be initiated into the jaycee men's organization at a meeting to be held next Monday. The list of pledges is not yet complete, however, as the names must go through the college office.

At the meeting of the club held Monday evening in the home of Frank Was, 617 Orange avenue, final arrangements were made for the Bachelor's ball. This important event of the college year is to be held Friday night at Pacific Coast club, Long Beach. Roy Potter is in charge of the orchestra and flowers. Dance favors are being secured by Frank Was, and Jack Murphy is ticket chairman.

Buccaneers
Buccaneers held their rush party Monday evening at the home of Skipper Harold Tucker. Rushes to the men's club were invited to the business meeting and the party which followed. During the meeting, members outlined their part in an intra-

Food Consumption Reaches Peak At the Age of Fourteen

Whereas people in an older day consumed food principally to derive energy for the activities of the body, nowadays we recognize the importance of certain ingredients in the diet which are required for building tissue and for maintaining it in a state of health. Nevertheless, we will use our muscles to some extent and we still burn carbohydrate food to provide us with energy. The total amount of such energy required is much less than it used to be; the coming of the motor car, the elevator, and machines of various types has taken from the muscles much of the burden that they used to bear.

There seems to be a tendency to regard calories as of little importance. Nevertheless, the coming of a great emergency like a war reveals at once to the experts in nutrition the importance of carbohydrate food for sustaining the energy of mankind in times of stress. Human beings cannot live on tablets containing vitamins and minerals alone. It is not possible to substitute quality entirely for quantity in our diets.

The small baby does not require as much energy producing food as the active boy or girl. The baby of one month of age needs about 500 calories in 24 hours; of two months, 610 calories; of five months, 750 calories; of 10 months, 900 calories; of 12 months, 1000 and of 24 months, 1200 calories per day. After this time, however, the child begins activities which increase greatly the demand for energy food because the child is also at this time growing at an exceedingly rapid rate.

During the last fifty years attempts have been made to set up standards of food requirement for children of various ages. The calories required increase steadily with age, reaching a peak at the age of 14 after which there is a drop.

It must be remembered that for energy requirement of the body it is the carbohydrate foods which are chiefly important. In carbohydrate foods we include not only sugar but also all of the cereals like oats, corn, wheat, rye, rice, barley and similar grains. Once children objected seriously to such foods because they were monotonous, but nowadays the manufacturers of prepared cereals have developed so many different modifications that any sort of appetite or taste may be met by the foods that are available.

mural sports tournament to be held soon. Jack Brounink was placed in charge of the club booth at the penny fair. He was also on the entertainment committee for the party. Refreshments were planned by Dick Ladiges and Wilbur Kamrath.

INGVOLDSTAD WILL TALK ON DICTATORS

The subject of Dr. Ingvoldstad's discussion tomorrow evening will be "Dictators—On the Way in or Out?" In the course of the discussion Dr. Ingvoldstad will answer these questions: Why will Hitler, Mussolini or Stalin go or stay? The new Pope—who and why? What effect will he have on Mussolini? Why are Schacht, Beck and Trotsky out? Can Mussolini take Tunisia from France? What do the dictators think of the American foreign policy? Can the dictators get together?

This is the third of Dr. Ingvoldstad's series of discussions. Last week 500 persons heard his presentation. Dr. Ingvoldstad travels regularly in Europe and brings first hand information as well as facts gathered from current literature. The meeting is in the Willard auditorium, 1342 North Ross, and begins at 7:30 p. m. There is no admission charge.

ISSUES OWN SCHOOL BOOK

ROME, Feb. 16.—(UP)—The Fascist Grand Council announced today a totalitarian educational plan under which the youth of Italy will undergo a thoroughly Fascist schooling from the kindergarten to the university in pursuance of Premier Benito Mussolini's dream of developing "the new Italian."

Under the plan, membership in the semi-military youth organizations is made obligatory to all students.

Issue School Book

A "school book" will be issued to students and they must present this when they graduate and go out into the world to seek jobs, to prove that they have followed "the civil curriculum of Italians of the Mussolini era."

The approved plan was submitted by Giuseppe Bottai, minister of education, at the meeting last night of the Grand Council, the supreme body of the Fascist hierarchy, with Mussolini presiding.

The plan will be effective at the opening of the school season next October.

Bottai explained to the council that the state would check up on all school books to insure that they followed Fascist doctrines, and that the state would control private schools.

Set Requirements

Children will be required to attend school until they attain the age of 14 years. Membership in the Fascist youth organizations will be obligatory until the 21st year.

Elementary and normal schools will have a 24 hour a week course. Study will be maintained by the state in special boarding schools.

Bottai called it a scholastic charter. It is intended to insure that all studies will be coordinated with the Fascist philosophy and that students themselves will be specimens of "scholar-students."

U. S. Resources Study Is Urged

Recommendations are advanced for solution of the most pressing problems. In connection with water pollution, he proposed establishment of a central technical agency to promote elimination of pollution and a system of federal grants in aid and loans which would be integrated with other water resources and public works programs.

Regarding conservation of energy, he said:

"Our energy resources are not inexhaustible, yet we are permitting waste in their use and production. In some instances, to achieve apparent economies today future generations will be forced to carry the burden of unnecessarily high costs and to substitute inferior fuels for particular purposes.

"National policies concerning these vital resources must recognize the availability of all of them; the location of each with respect to its markets; the costs of transporting them; the technological developments which will increase the efficiency of their production and use; the use of the lower grade coals; and the relationship between the increased use of energy and the general economic development of the country."

He said past legislation on resources has been rather haphazard.

Urges Planning

"It is time now," he said, "to take a larger view to recognize more fully than has been possible perhaps needful in the past—that each of our great natural resources of energy affects the others."

He pointed out that time was required for development of a "broader and integrated policy to ward the problems of coal, petroleum, natural gas and water power."

"Clearly," he said, "there must be adequate and continuing planning and provision for studies which will reflect the best technical experience available, as well as full consideration for both regional and group interests."

Such schemes, however, are already in operation including the broadcasting to Nazi distaste of British news in German.

Seek To Regain Scale Work Cost

Steps to recover the costs of eradicating black, red and purple scale in several Orange county groves, where the owners failed to control the pests themselves, were taken today in superior court by Agricultural Commissioner D. W. Tubbs department, when suit was filed to foreclose liens upon the several properties.

One complaint asked $346.75 against Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Foster, Minnie M. Chillot, Frank F. Clair, Emma G. Otis and Anaheim Community Growers. The other demanded $148.30 from E. G. Stinson, Pomona College, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Rohrs.

Homestead Claim Lost In Court

A. L. McIntyre failed to sustain his homestead claim to a strip of property near Sunset Beach when Superior Judge George K. Scovel late yesterday granted a decree to the Lomita Land and Water company, owner of lands on either side of the McIntyre strip, quieting the company's title to the land claimed by McIntyre. Hearing of the case had occupied several days.

Wind is the greatest of all the plant fertilizing agencies, although many flowering plants depend entirely upon insects.

TWO POST OFFICE MESSENGERS SLUGGED; BANDITS GET $30,000

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., Feb. 16.—(UP)—Five bandits slugged a police sergeant and two post office messengers today and robbed them of an estimated $30,000 to $40,000 which was being taken from the post office to the City National Bank.

The messengers, accompanied by Officer John Toothill had just left the post office building when the bandits approached, slugged the sergeant on the head, wrested the money bags from the messengers, and dashed to an automobile parked nearby.

Care Urged In Election of Pope

Tourists in Rome were denied the privilege of viewing the Sistine Chapel with Michaelangelo's ceiling, since the chapel was being decorated for the conclave which will be held there.

From the altar of the Sistine Chapel will be placed a table depicting the descent of the Holy Ghost upon the apostles. It will be surmounted by a violet colored canopy. On the highest step of the altar will be placed an arm chair which the new Pope will use when he is proclaimed head of the church by his former brother cardinals. During the count of ballots, six long candles will burn on the altar.

All morning newspapers in Rome, evidently discounting the possibility of the election of a non-Italian Pope, published photographs of Italian cardinals whom they regarded as leading candidates.

It was announced that three more cardinals, the Americans, George Cardinal Mundelein, archbishop of Chicago and Denis Cardinal Dougherty, archbishop of Philadelphia, and Emanuele Cardinal Conclaves Cerejeira, patriarch of Lisbon, will arrive Saturday.

William Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston and Sebastiano Cardinal Leme De Silveira Cintra, archbishop of Rio de Janeiro, will arrive the night of March 1, a few hours after the time reportedly set for the opening of the conclave which will elect a new Pope.

Takes Cooking Lesson from Expert

A future home-maker takes a lesson in cooking from Miss Emily Conklin, conductor of the cooking school, "Foods of the Hour." Surprise drumsticks are fun to make, but the eating is the best part of the lesson! Many delicious dishes which appeal especially to children and which are as nutritious as they are tempting, are featured on the program of the cooking school.

HOMEMAKING DECLARED REAL PROFESSION BY S. A. LECTURER

The homemaker need not envy the "career woman." Instead she may very well consider that she, too, has a profession, one which requires just as much skill, enterprise and imagination as any other worthwhile "job." And she has just as much need to keep up to date in her line as has any business woman.

That's the opinion of Miss Emily Conklin, noted home economist, who will conduct The Register cooking school, "Foods of the Hour," to be presented for three days beginning Tuesday, February

21 at the West Coast theater. "To select the right foods, buy economically, cook them in the right way, and serve them appetizingly, the homemaker of today has to be a combination of financier, scientist and artist!" says Miss Conklin. "Don't tell me there is no scope for talent in this profession of homemaking."

Balanced Diet
"It is because women are more and more coming to regard their work as something which requires intelligence and knowledge that they appreciate the information we bring them in our cooking school. We've planned the course as carefully as if it were part of a college curriculum."

"We've gone into the subject of selecting food, and we show that a balanced diet to build health is essential for all members of the family. The needs of growing children, of active adults, and even those who are watching their weight and cutting down on the amount of food, are explained in this course."

Value of Meat
"The value of meat in the diet is so important that we give special attention to the preparation of meat dishes. This is a very interesting subject because, as every homemaker knows, the well-chosen and well-cooked meal course makes the success of any meal. There have been radical changes in meat cookery, and we make a special point of explaining and demonstrating these new methods in roasting, broiling and braising. This is of great value to every woman who wants to keep up to date in her cookery.

"There's a real financial advantage, too, in knowing the right way to cook meat. Many cuts which are delicious in flavor and high in food value require longer, slower cooking to make them tender. These are usually somewhat lower in price and can be used with good effect by the clever budgeter. Also, there's a gain in variety in menus when all cuts of meat, beef, pork, lamb and veal, are known and used. Such cuts as tongue, kidneys, and, of course, that valuable food, liver, are included on our program."

Host of Suggestions
"The woman who budgets her time and energy is also going to get new ideas from 'Foods of the Hour' for we have a host of suggestions for quick meals, for methods which take very little watching, roasts and oven meals, for instance, and for such convenient ways as preparing biscuit mixture and a pie mixture to keep on hand."

"For the woman with an artistic talent, there is no finer way of expressing it than in preparing and presenting food. Cooking has long been recognized as one of the fine arts. A steak, broiled to perfection, a roast, perfectly done, attractively garnished, and served with other foods to form a perfect dinner—these are truly artistic achievements. One can work out harmonies in flavor, and in food colors, too."

"I'm sure there are dishes in the 'March of Meals' at the close of each day's program, which would tempt an artist to paint them. But most women in the audience will be quite happy if they can be artists enough to duplicate them in their own kitchens."

"These are all reasons why I insist that there's no profession which offers a better field for talent, or yields greater satisfaction than that of the homemaker."

Paralyzed Boy Saved By "Lung" Parents Made

LONDON (UP)—A father and mother have saved the life of their son after doctors had all but abandoned hope.

For nine days and nights they took turns operating a special apparatus which enabled the boy, who was stricken with infantile paralysis, to breathe.

Gordon Bennett, 9, contracted the disease last August. Recently the paralysis spread to his lungs. A swing apparatus, which operated by levers, expanded and contracted the lungs, was constructed and the boy's parents volunteered to work the machine.

Day and night they worked. At last their efforts were rewarded. Gordon's lungs became strong enough to allow him to be removed from the machine. He is well on the road to recovery now.

"JAYDEE'S" FUTURE TO BE ANALYZED

Tonight on the stage at Walker's theater, Norvell, prominent astrologer for scores of movie greats, will analyze and interview "Jaydee" Thompson, three-year-old Santa Ana mental wonder discovered by The Register several weeks ago.

After talking to "Jaydee" and giving him a full astrological analysis, Norvell will determine the child's possibilities as a potential motion picture star or featured player and, if he finds "Jaydee" has the required qualities, will arrange a meeting between him and motion picture executives whose job it is to arrange screen tests and will let him a screen test, he announced.

"Jaydee," son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Thompson, 925 French street, is capable of naming capitals of all states, giving names of the Presidents in order down to the present, counting to 50, reciting many poems and doing numerous other astonishing things never expected of a three-year-old.

Tonight and tomorrow, at all performances, Norvell will be here in person for a stage appearance at Walker's theater and will answer questions of persons in the audience with the same procedure used in interviewing the movie stars. He will be the special guest performer during tomorrow night's "Opportunity Night," eight-act amateur vaudeville program as well as during other programs during his two-day stay.

ORANGE COUNTY GARDENS AND HOMES

Orange County Gardening

By Mrs. H. Cardoza Sloan, Corona Del Mar
Being sound advice and interesting comment on what to plant and how to care for Orange county gardens.

Camellias
This is the season of the camellia bloom. My thought has been turned to the camellias by a beautiful blossom given me a week ago, carried all day in the automobile before being put in water, and apparently as fresh this morning, after the passing of seven days, as it was when plucked from the bush. It is a flower of camellia. "Chandler elegans", one of the handsomest of the camellias. The blossom is large, with lovely large rounded outer petals, the center full and peony-like. The color a rich rosy pink with a few white blotches. The plants of this variety are rather dwarf, but flower when young and bloom profusely.

There are many varieties of camellia and now is a good time to visit nurseries which specialize in their growing. "Pink Perfection" is one of the old favorites, perfect in its form, delicately lovely in its light pink coloring. It is not too much to claim perfection for this flower. There are also a white, a rose, and a bright cherry red in this medium size, double form. And of recent years many larger types, some more loosely petaled, some of the peony type, all marvelously colored, and some fragrant.

These camellias are varieties of camellia japonica and camellia sasanqua, the fragrant varieties deriving from sasanqua, which has a more straggling habit of growth than japonica.

These seem to be an idea that camellias are difficult to grow. Yet anyone who remembers old California gardens must recall that the camellia was quite commonly grown, usually as a handsome specimen shrub. I well remember one beauty reaching to the second story window of a house in Santa Ana in which I once lived. It was beautifully shaped and its deep rosy-red flowers set against the dark, glossy green foliage made it one of the most decorative shrubs—I have ever seen. No special care was given the camellias in those old gardens.

And in the light sandy soil of Florida camellias grow with the luxuriance and abandon of natives.

Here we consider they do best in a slightly acid soil, using a little peat or leafmold with the garden soil. I have wondered if their success in Florida is not partly due to the excellent drainage supplied by the sandy soil. For good drainage is the most essential requirement in growing camellias. I have even heard of putting charcoal at the bottom of the hole in which a camellia is to be set, covering this with several inches of soil before setting the shrub.

A north or east exposure is best for camellias, and reasonable shelter from high wind. Yet I am mindful of a tree I know out beyond Whittier, which is growing in full sun in the middle of a lawn, all by itself, and exposed to all the winds that blow and all the sun that shines, and is yet a magnificent large shrub and in blooming season literally covered with flowers.

A mulch of manure, now and then a little commercial fertilizer, used to be the recommendation. Nowadays people are using cottonseed meal. But at any rate, fertilize during the growing season, and don't neglect watering and any care one gives to it is then the flower buds are forming and any care one gives to keep the bush thrifty growing at that season will be amply repaid when blossom time comes around.

Do not dig or cultivate around a camellia bush. The roots lie close to the surface and do not like to be disturbed. California growers recommend a mulch of peatmoss. And one more item, camellias do not like to be covered by other plants.

For Quick Bloom
Always at this time of year, and especially when we have suffered from extreme cold weather, there are bare spots where we thought to see masses of color in the garden. At such a time we should be grateful for a number of quick growing annuals which can be planted lavishly and will soon fill the empty spaces with cheerful bloom.

Linaria is one of these. It comes from seed in about five or six days, grows quickly, blooms profusely with spikes of small snapdragon-like flowers. Comes in mixed colors.

A European linaria which has become naturalized in New England, and doubtless in other parts of the country, is linaria vulgaris, the "toad flax," or "butter and eggs." This last is the name by which we knew it. The plant has little yellow flowers with a plash of orange, and is considered a pest, although it usually grows in waste places. The Kennilworth ivy is also a linaria, you will recognize the characteristic shape of the little flower. Linaria maroccana is the little annual good for planting at this time. Grows about a foot high. Virginia stock is another small annual for quick growing. Sow where it is to grow. Seedlings will be up in around five days and in practically no time at all you will have a mass of pretty foliage and a multitude of little four-petaled flowers in dainty colors. Seed is usually sold mixed, but it is possible to get it in separate colors. It grows about 8 to 10 inches high.

Danger of harmful cold is now supposed to be past. Of course the unexpected often happens, both good and bad (and the bad does seem to strike a pretty good average) but the weather men tell us we can reasonably expect freedom from killing frost after the middle of February. It will then be time to plant seeds of all hardy annuals, so heave to my hearties, and get the ground prepared and ready.

HOME GARDEN IS VITAMIN SOURCE

Freshness is the quality which enhances the value of the home garden for the family with children especially. The products of the home garden may be served a few minutes after they are picked, and thus consumed with their maximum vitamin content. Tenderness and flavor are also at their best in fresh vegetables.

Quantity of food is no longer the index to a properly balanced diet, and children especially may lack certain essential elements without that fact being realized.

Of all vitamins, perhaps the most important for growing children is vitamin C, which is required for normal tooth development and healthy gums.

It is the most elusive of vitamins—what the experts call chemically unstable—and while it is found in most abundance in cabbage, lettuce, tomatoes, peppers, spinach, radishes, cucumbers, onions and citrus fruits, it quickly deteriorates when the vegetable or fruit is harvested. To be sure it is present, you must be sure the food is fresh.

Health and vigor are promoted by vitamin A. The pigments called carotene, found in many vegetables, are the sources of this important food. An adequate supply helps to build up resistance to disease, especially for children. Asparagus, broccoli, cabbage, carrots, celery, chard, yellow corn kale, lettuce, green peppers, spinach, string beans, tomatoes, yellow turnips and several other vegetables are rich in this vitamin.

Vitamins B and G were at first thought to be one. Later they were segregated, but found always in combinations in the same foods. Stimulation of appetite and digestion, as well as growth-promotion, is their special province. A lack of them will cause nervous diseases and tendencies, as well as pellagra. They are found in peas, beans and many of the root crops, and are especially accommodating because they withstand the extreme heat of cooking.

Vitamin D regulates the absorption of the mineral salts, calcium and phosphorus, which are found in vegetables. It is most essential for children, whose bones are forming and growing. It is found chiefly in liver oils, sunlight, eggs and milk, and should be accompanied by an adequate supply of mineral salts.

THIN VEGETABLES IN EARLY STAGES

Most vegetable crops must be thinned out in early stages of growth. If left until they attain some size, it is impossible to thin them without checking the growth of those that remain. This does not apply to carrots and beets which may be thinned when some are large enough to use. It is the half grown carrots that are most delicious, and the growth is so much more length than in diameter that the thinning process does not disturb the others so much.

Beets may be thinned when large enough to use; many other vegetables need thinning in earlier stages.

Turnips must be thinned before they begin to form. The early turnips are round and flat. They do not grow well if crowded. If thinning is postponed, until the roots begin to form the growth of all is checked and the ravages of worms, which are already to feed on turnips, are likely to be fatal. If the young plants are pulled so they stand four inches apart in a row, in remarkably quick time they will be large enough to use.

Beets are most easily handled than turnips when they are a little larger, and gardeners should not fail to try a dish of beet tops with the tiny roots just beginning to form. The beets which are left in the ground should be spaced two inches apart. In harvesting this crop as maturity progresses, choose alternate plants so those remaining in the row always have more room in which to develop.

New Ways To Use Grapefruit

Variations on the grapefruit pie theme—topped with hard sauce, with whipped cream or with softened peanut butter.

With a record crop of grapefruit on the market new ways of using fruit from the tree in the home garden will be welcome. Have you tried broiled grapefruit, or two crust grapefruit pie?

Broiled Grapefruit
Select smooth-skinned grapefruit and cut each grapefruit in half. Core and remove seeds. Loosen segments by cutting around them with curved knife, but do not take out membrane. Sprinkle one tablespoon brown or granulated sugar on top of each half. Dot generously with butter. Dust with nutmeg if desired. Heat through in medium oven for about 10 minutes, then place

LEAFLET IS READY ON WATER GARDENS

Interested in water-culture? (And who isn't, when glowing tales of flowers and vegetables grown in water with a few handfuls of chemicals are circulating in the best garden circles). Due to the interest attached to growing plants in water containing nutrient substances, the Agricultural Experiment station of the University of California has issued a circular intended to correct many false impressions regarding the practice. The circular, which is No. 347 of the Experiment Station series, is now available at the Farm Advisor's office.

Because of doubts expressed concerning many claims made for the use of the water-culture method as a means of crop production, it became evident that an independent appraisal of this method of growing crops was highly desirable. Dean Hutchison of the College of Agriculture, says in an introduction to the circular.

The authors of the circular seek to put at rest many "grossly inaccurate" statements regarding the water culture of plants, and to state simply and concisely just what methods the person who cultivates plants in this way should follow and what results he may expect.

Attention is called to the fact that this method of cultivation is not particularly new; that it has been carried out in various forms since 1699 when the scientist, Woodward, grew spearmint in several kinds of water. Real development of the technique of water culture took place about three-quarters of a century ago, and there have been many contributions to the process since that time, with varying results.

The many complexities attendant upon the growing of such plants, such as climatic requirements, temperature relationships and the composition of the various solutions are detailed by the authors. An interesting comparison between water-grown and soil-grown plants is also made, showing that, in the case of tomatoes at least, the results were not markedly different. In one greenhouse experiment the yields were larger from the soil than from the water mixture.

Every Saturday the owner works in a Santa Ana nursery taking all of his pay in plants. He has camellias of several kinds in bloom on the north side of the house. One of his favorite flowers is the Bird of Paradise plant. He thinks them the most interesting of flowers.

Concord, in the northern part of the state is a city that has applied for WPA labor to put flowers in every available spot. Spaces are to be spaced by WPA workers and seeds will be furnished to residents who are to water and care for the plants.

To see J. Gregory Conway arrange flowers is an inspiring sight. Monday evening at Willard auditorium Mr. Conway made flower arrangements "around the world." He is a son of Erin who studied flower arrangement in Japan and in other countries of Asia and of Europe.

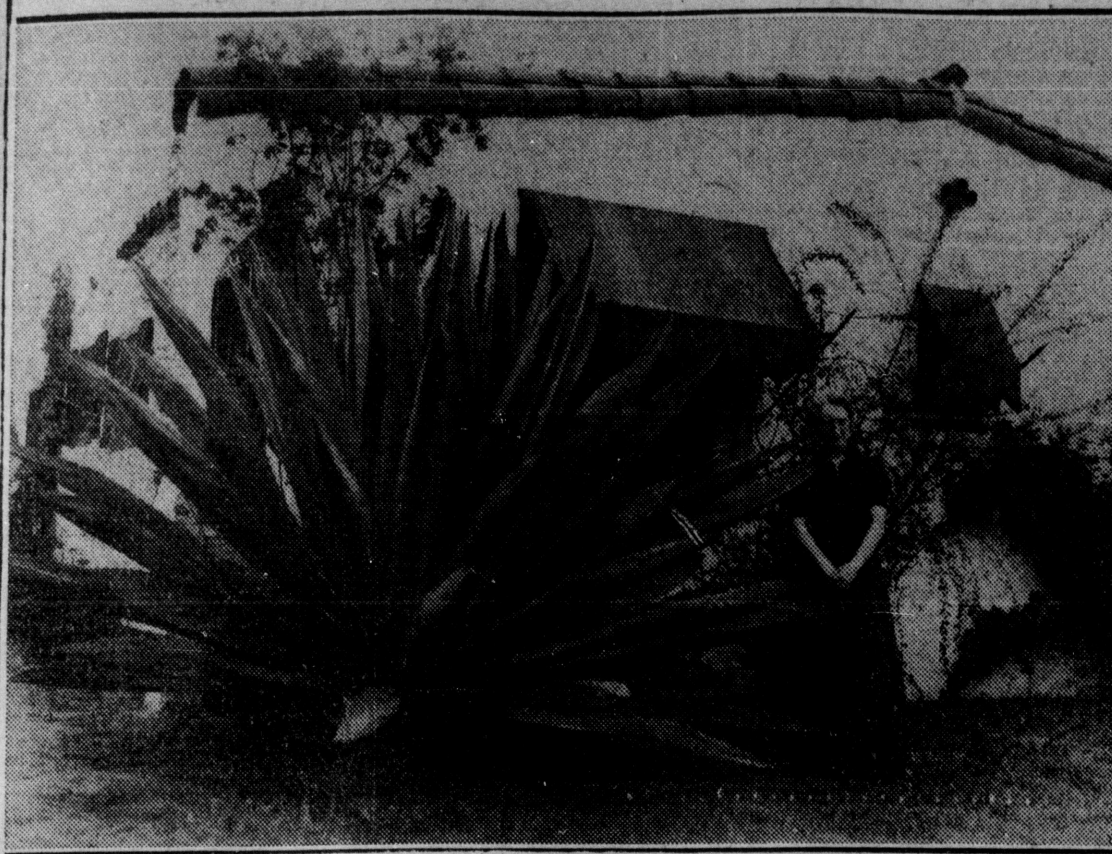

An arrangement called "Paris in Spring" was simply done with flowering peach and matching cyclamen blossoms at the base.

Holland was represented by arrangements of blue and pink hyacinths in two wooden shoes. A Japanese arrangement was of pussy willows bent between each bud to make them supple. There were arrangements typical of Hawaii, the Philippines and India which gave the audience, made up of men as well as women, many ideas of what to do with materials always at hand in Southern California.

Many Christmas bouquets next year no doubt will reflect the German offering. Masses of candy-tuft were placed in a low white container, the arrangement lighted by small pink candles placed among the flowers and reflected in many balls of tinsel the color of a bluebird. The famous Hummell figures made by Bertha Hummell, a nun in Germany, were used in the lovely bouquet.

Some of the figures used were so old that the carved ivory was the color of amber. A copper teapot on the stage was made in

First Hundred Years Are The Hardest

This century plant at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Wordie, 1305 South Parton street is not particularly old, in fact has not attained even a quarter of a century of life. Its size can be judged as it is compared with Mrs. Wordie who stands at the right. Mr. Wordie is not at all enthusiastic about the young giant but Mrs. Wordie is interested in its rapid growth. When the plant blooms, it will follow an old custom of century plants, and will wither and die. The one blossom it will bear will be the effort of a life time and nearly telephone pole high. The plant does its duty in adding to the century plant population by sending up young plants around its base, which in the case of the Wordie plant, are cut down whenever they appear.

Through The Garden Gate

With MARAH ADAMS

It's moving day almost any day and in almost any garden.

Men gardeners seem to find the same joy in moving plants to new spots in the garden that their wives find in moving the furniture about the rooms. There is this difference: wives usually join enthusiastically in the garden moving—but who ever saw a man who enjoyed seeing how the piano would look if it exchanged places with the davenport. Or if the big overstuffed chair would be as comfortable if it traded places with the bookcase?

Still, one of the greatest joys of gardening is changing things about. New borders for the walks and flower beds or different ones for different seasons. Noticed that the Eddie Martins on South Birch street, have yellow violas in bloom in the lobelia border along their front walk that was so greatly admired last summer.

There is a house at 1242 South Garnsey street where many persons stop and ask "May I look around your yard?" The cozy white home with the figure of a little girl swinging in the front yard, the many plants and flowers and the deft and unusual touches cannot fail to attract the attention of passersby.

Mr. and Mrs. James Akerman are the owners. In the back yard are all sorts of vegetables coming up in neat rows and the Akermans did not buy even a radish last year. The back yard is to be fenced shortly with a knotty pine fence. A weeping willow centers the space in the center.

It was a marvelous thing to see. There must have been literally thousands of the birds, joyfully swooping from tree-top to bushes and back again. First a nip of a red berry and then a bite of a black one. Waxwings flying back and forth across the street. The birds never linger long and soon are on their way. Their flights have been likened to that of the now extinct passenger pigeon.

Tells When To Cut Poinsettias

Don't be in a hurry to cut back poinsettias. Wait until May at least. It is better to delay the pruning until later than to take a chance on pruning too early.

Too early pruning causes the plant to blossom too early in season and in small flower bracts. A plant cut back now, for example, might flower next August and in a most unsatisfactory manner.

When you do cut back a poinsettia, cut the flower stalk a little above the third bud. An old plant will, however, stand most severe cutting back.

If you have plants now in pots, do not set them outside until the weather is warmer. In cutting flowers do not cut the full length of the stems. That has the same effect of too early pruning.

Bland To Speak At Costa Mesa Club

With Arthur Bland, Santa Ana nurseryman as speaker, members of the Garden section of the Friday Afternoon club will have charge of the program for tomorrow, the second February meeting of the general membership. Mrs. R. S. Erbe is garden section chairman. Tea hour will follow the program.

Scheduled as the first program in March is a social meeting with Mrs. F. P. Wells as chairman of the hostess committee. Mrs. S. A. Meyer, Mrs. S. H. Davidson and Mrs. G. R. Bremer will assist Mrs. Wells.

The smell of citronella oil temporarily stimulates the sense of sight.

TALK GIVEN ON HIGHWAY BEAUTY

Aligning themselves with the project adopted generally by the garden clubs throughout the state, that of eliminating unsightly billboards detracting from the beauty of growing things along the highway, members of the Costa Mesa Garden club heard a talk covering that subject at their Tuesday meeting with Mrs. O. G. Barnard as speaker. Club members were guests at the home of Mrs. E. H. Rehme on Tustin avenue. A second speaker was Mrs. William Waechter of Olive whose topic was "The Dogwood Flower."

Valentine favors were combined with floral decorations for the luncheon table. With the clearing weather, the March 7 meeting will be held as a field trip to the Santa Ana canyon on a wild flower inspection tour. If the trip proves impractical, a hostess will be named later.

Committee chairmen, appointed by the new president, Mrs. Raymond Hill, in office for the first time, were Mrs. James L. Fagan and Mrs. S. D. Benny, flowers, and Mrs. H. B. McMurry and Mrs. Severin Sneve, program.

Present were Mrs. William Waechter of Olive, Mrs. O. G. Barnard, Mrs. James L. Fagan, Mrs. C. W. Miller, Mrs. Norrel Lamberton, Mrs. L. C. Smalley, Mrs. S. D. Benny, Mrs. Severin Sneve, Mrs. Raymond Hill, Mrs. H. B. McMurry and Mrs. E. H. Rehme, Costa Mesa.

PUMPKINS ON BUSHES

One of the new things in the vegetable garden is a bush pumpkin. Pie pumpkins of good size are borne on compact bushes about the size of an Italian marrow plant requiring about 4 square feet of space in the garden. This will enable jack-o-lanterns to be grown in small gardens.

ly 30 members were in attendance. Plans for the March meeting will be announced at a later date.

Orange Woman Is Speaker At Meet

The Balboa Island home of Mrs. Howard W. Seager, 124 South Bay front was the setting for the February meeting of the Garden Section of the Newport Beach Ebell club. Mrs. Hoxsie Y. Smith shared hostess duties with Mrs. Seager.

Speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. M. M. Fishback of Orange whose highlights of a recent tour of Europe included glimpses of the famous gardens which she had seen. Mrs. C. M. Deakins was program chairman. Approximate-

PICNIC GROUNDS AT SEAL BEACH URGED

SEAL BEACH, Feb. 16.—Details which have built the neighboring Los Alamitos and Sunset Beach Chambers of Commerce into leading civic booster organizations in the county will be disclosed to members of the new Seal Beach Chamber of Commerce here Friday evening, according to plans announced by F. W. Hickman, secretary, here today. W. H. Crofoot, president of the Los Alamitos group and also of the newly organized West Orange Chamber of Commerce, L. E. Patch, president of the Sunset Beach organization, and H. M. May, of Fullerton, secretary of the Association Chambers of Commerce of Orange county, will all be guest speakers. The meeting which will be open to the general public will convene at 8 o'clock, February 17, in the auditorium at the city hall.

The guest speakers were sought by the local chamber as men particularly well informed on the needs of a small community, and will address the group in conjunction with the adoption of plans finally approved by the board of directors in session here Monday evening.

Investigation of the needs for well equipped picnic grounds revealed the fact that major setups in Long Beach, of the type being sought here, are reserved as much as four months in advance. Secretary Hickman reported to the board. Recommendations that the city install such equipment, with large enclosed brick ovens, will be submitted to the city council at their regular meeting Thursday evening, in the hope that installation will be complete before the pier dedication celebration May 20.

Organization of a credit association designed to be of service to local merchants and landlords under the chairmanship of J. C. Felts of the merchant's division, was also approved by the board, and will be presented to the general membership Friday.

In the interest of health and sanitation, efforts will be made to obtain free fill dirt to level off low lying lots which have hitherto collected stagnant water and other debris. The fill dirt can be obtained through cooperation with the city, Secretary Hickman says.

First results from the move to obtain boundary line markers through the cooperation of the Automobile Club of Southern California were apparent here Tuesday when a representative of that organization met with local chamber officials to conduct a preliminary survey.

POHLMANN-WIEBE WEDDING IS HELD

ANAHEIM, Feb. 16.—Solemn rites yesterday morning during a nuptial mass at St. Boniface church marked the wedding of Miss Wilda May Pohlmann, daughter of Mrs. Christina Pohlmann of Anaheim, and Arnold John Wiebe, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Wiebe of Orange.

Exquisite white stock and Chinese lilies cast their fragrance about the candle-lit altar before which the popular young couple recited their vows after the Rev. Father James Nevin in a double ring ceremony.

White satin yoked with seed pearls fashioned the gown of the bride. It buttoned tight to the waist and swept in a long train behind her. Over this cascaded a delicate veil which fell from a tiara of pearls. White bride's roses and gardenias were carried in her arms.

Gowns of bouffant, taffeta, with dainty skirts flounced in silk net, were worn by Miss Pohlmann's attendants, each of whom chose a different pastel shade. Miss Velma Pohlmann, maid of honor, chose dainty peach, and Miss Vernia Pohlmann was in pale blue. Miss Margaret Reeves' gown was of blush pink, and little Ruth Marie Schnackenberg, niece of the groom, wore green taffeta in her role of flower girl.

LATE NEWS FROM ORANGE

EUROPE IS TOPIC AT CHURCH NIGHT

ORANGE, Feb. 16.—A survey of the conditions in Europe, with particular reference to economics was made by Dr. L. V. Lucas, pastor of the Trinity Methodist church of Pomona, in the last of the series of church nights given by the local Methodist church.

England is chiefly concerned with keeping her life line to India unbroken by way of the Suez canal, he stated, and keeps troops in Palestine to be in readiness to defend Suez. Russia is always a menace to England's India route, he added, so England plays Germany against Russia in order to keep Russia's attention from herself. The entire political snarl in Europe is outgrowth of all petty quarrels between rulers and countries, he continued.

As church people we must face life with a different attitude, and seek to maintain integrity and justice in our country, and not let ourselves become involved in those European differences, he concluded.

Vernon Shippee introduced Lucille Randall Satterlee of Long Beach, who sang three numbers. She was accompanied by Jeanette Nickey Viurton. A 6:30 dinner in the Epworth hall preceded the meeting, prepared by the S. W. class. The Rev. Arthur T. Hobson, pastor of the church, gave the invocation.

Three Birthdays Are Celebrated

ORANGE, Feb. 16.—Three birthdays in one family that fell on St. Valentine day were observed this week. That of Gordon Higgins, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Higgins, the little boy's grandfather, W. O. Higgins, and his great-grandmother, Mrs. I. H. Ludlow, of Santa Ana.

In the afternoon, Mrs. Higgins entertained 23 little schoolmates of her son at the West Orange school. The table was spread with a cloth decorated with circus figures when a birthday cake was served. Six red and white candles decorated the cake. Balloons of many colors were the favors. Gordon received numerous gifts from the small guests and games were played after those present had donned paper hats.

In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Higgins entertained with a family dinner when three birthday cakes were served with the dessert course at the attractively appointed table. W. O. Higgins and Mrs. I. H. Ludlow shared honors with the son of the home. Birthday gifts were exchanged and the evening was spent in visiting.

Orange Civic Groups To Meet

ORANGE, Feb. 16.—Unification of community service activities through the Community Chest will be considered at a meeting of representatives of various groups to be called shortly, according to action taken at a meeting of the Orange Community Chamber of Commerce held yesterday at the Sunshine Broiler. The committee in charge will be Frank Collins, S. B. Edwards, Dr. Paul Rumph and M. M. Fishback.

It was pointed out that the chamber of commerce would not be included in the setup and that should one or two organizations wish to conduct individual campaigns and not be included in the chest movement, it would not affect the larger majority of service groups wishing to do so. The community chest was approved by directors.

Roy N. Edwards presided. Action was taken to continue the annual celebration of May Day, an annual event over a period of years, with the approval of the Orange city council. Councilman William Batt and Henry Bandick are members of the committee from the city council making a recent survey and reporting that the majority of merchants favored the celebration.

The superstition concerning the number 13 rests mainly on the fact that there were 13 at the Last Supper and the thirteenth man betrayed Christ and hanged himself later.

News behind the news

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—WPA's relief football prospects for next fall do not look any too good right now. A Florida situation has arisen to hamper national Head Coach Harrington's outlook for the coming season.

Some Florida press clippings have been flying around the New Deal campus here, carrying the news that 19 members of the University of Florida football team were put on the WPA rolls by their coach last summer, because "we needed outdoor work," said one.

The news may not have been what you might call surprising in the WPA locker room. The excitement is not about that, nor is there any criticism here of this phase of it. As one official puts it: "It was a worthy case."

If he means the team, there is no question that he made a strong understatement. They obviously needed far more outdoor work than they got. They lost to Stetson, Mississippi State, Miami, Boston College, Georgia and Temple. If he means the boys, they may make him prove it as the Florida news headlines show: "Florida grid men say they didn't ask WPA relief."

Whether other teams will get outdoor WPA work this summer is a highly unsettled question. Many a coach, looking back on last season, may agree this is what his team lacks — Chicago, just for instance (points 76, opponents 241), or Iowa, Kansas, Marquette, to name only a few of dozens.

The need exists. The only question is whether the new WPA Head Coach Harrington who supplanted Harry Hopkins, after the last season was over, will follow the Florida policy, in view of something that happened there, which has made everyone around WPA headquarters here very angry.

The WPA checks to the 19 University of Florida football players apparently did not when they left WPA, but — according to published Florida accounts — were cashed by someone, after the team was back in school. This is a charge at any rate. Hoover's FBI men were sent down to investigate immediately after the charge was made. Their report is imminent. A case may be made of it, which will endanger any further WPA football-relief activities for the coming season.

Legislators trying to hold relief funds down to actual need, may not overlook the opportunity of de-emphasizing WPA football activities in the coming relief bill for next year.

Note—If many underprivileged football teams have been receiving WPA outdoor work at federal expense, no announcement has been made. But this may not mean anything as no leakage developed in this case until FBI agents started investigating to find out who was cashing the checks after the Florida team returned to school.

Within a month, a bill will be presented to the house to expand the government's right to go into debt. Limit by law is $40 billions but the debt is getting close to that. There is some talk, but no

TAXPAYERS URGED TO REPORT ON RETURNS AT POSTOFFICE

With the deadline for federal income taxes March 15, taxpayers today are urged to start filing their returns. Three deputies are at the office at room 200, postoffice building, to assist taxpayers in making out their returns.

Office hours on Saturday are 8 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and on other week days 8:30 a. m. to 4 p. m. All of the federal income tax forms are available at the office here.

Penalties Prescribed
Deputies here are Manson Rouse of Orange and Sidney C. Crockett and Lionel J. Bailey of Los Angeles. Joseph Peterson of Orange, deputy in the Santa Ana office, has been assigned to traveling duties for the next month.

After March 15, penalties of five per cent a month up to and including 25 per cent and interest at six per cent a year will be assessed.

A representative of the state will be at the Santa Ana city hall March 1 to 15. The deadline on the state income taxes is April 15.

The trouble with Mr. Ickes may be that the press is censoring his announcements. His bureau of mines in his interior department issued a handout: "for immediate release" on February 9 and not a line of it has appeared in a single newspaper to this day.

This formal announcement apparently suppressed by the press in its gigantic conspiracy against Ickesian exaltation, starts off like this (direct quotes):

"By their very nature all explosives are potentially hazardous and every type of explosive, irrespective of its relative safety should be handled, stored and used with utmost care at all times and under all conditions, the bureau of mines, United States Department of Interior warns in a report just published. Only permissible explosives should be used in coal mines."

"An explosive can be made safe only in certain of its features and under certain conditions and circumstances. If these facts are always kept in mind, most commercial explosives can be handled safely." Etc. Etc.

No doubt Ickes will trace this suppression to the possibility that a newspaper somewhere had some explosive advertising, rather than to the conclusion that nearly everyone outside the bureau of mines had long suspected dynamite was dangerous.

It might be better for him, however, to let this one slide, as no doubt some congressman or newspaper editor will arise to ask why the bureau of mines should have had an appropriation of $2,902,735 this year to find that out.

Ask Doctor About This Ideal Way TO LOSE FAT

READ EVERY WORD!

Make up your mind now that you'll lose some of that ugly fat and really enjoy life. No one can blame you if you don't want to take harmful drugs, go on starvation diets and do backbreaking exercises. No sane woman would! And for sensible women like yourself who really want to reduce yet don't expect miracles overnight—who are willing to faithfully follow a most simple, inexpensive and pleasant 28 day plan, we suggest this easy method—First of all go light on fatty foods and sweets. Eat plentifully of lean meats, fresh fruits and vegetables. And for proper functioning by removal of accumulated wastes be sure to take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in hot water every morning. Kruschen is made right here in U. S. A. from famous English formula.

And let's get this straight right now about Kruschen. It is not harmful. It is NOT just one salt as some people may ignorantly believe. Look on the box! You'll see it is a blend of active minerals which—when dissolved in water—is similar to the famous medicinal Spa waters where wealthy women have gone for years.

A jar of Kruschen costs but a few cents and lasts 6 weeks. Get it RIGHT AWAY! At drugists everywhere.

More than a million and a half boxes of oranges were handled at the Santiago Orange Growers' association plant the past season, according to a report submitted to approximately 300 growers by R. E. Gross, secretary and manager, at a meeting held this morning at the Orange Intermediate school.

The plant is said to be the largest exclusive orange packing house in the world.

Figures Analyzed
Gross told growers that a total of 1,622,733 field boxes of oranges were picked. These, he said, "included 1,582,318 boxes of valencias and 40,435 boxes of navel, which, reduced to a packed-box basis and figuring cars at 462 boxes, showed a total of 2392 carloads of fruit picked. Of the crop, 1817 cars were packed, 215 cars sold loose, (for fresh fruit purpose) and 361 cars went to juice and by-products plant."

"Valencias were of very early maturity and early indications were that there might develop considerable granulation; however, from the very start of the season your field men inspected orchards for this and other off conditions of fruit, and when fruit was found that showed indications of not holding; it was picked. This service was of considerable benefit to you in your returns, as this supervision resulted in the final out-turn of only 3-10 of 1 per cent orchard run or off grade. In many cases had this questionable holding fruit not been taken care of promptly, the grower would have had fruit under off brands in stead of Sunbelt. There is a large difference in price between these two classes of fruit."

Export Good Outlook
"Export shipment gave us a considerable outlet, a total of 104,271 packed boxes were exported, being equivalent to 226 carloads. Heavy shipments of exports of most shippers relieved the domestic markets, as our home markets could not have consumed this extra fruit without a further lowering of prices."

"Valencias sizes are below the average of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, their average being 230 as against our average of 243 per box. Small sizes naturally bring lower average returns than larger sizes."

Watch Expense Closely
"All items of expense under our control were watched very closely, and wherever possible costs were reduced; some savings have been effected, however, and some costs have increased; freight charges were 5 1/2 c. per box more; shock costs were up better than 1 cent per box, and tax expenses increased over 400 per cent as compared with 1935 season, mostly coming from social security and unemployment taxes."

"Members' returns varied greatly, being influenced by the grade of fruit and the sizes the grower furnished. Returns were discouraging and 1938 with its large crop of fruit did not return much money to the grower, even if orange returns were above those of most competitive fruits. Everyone is familiar with economic conditions and the low buying power of the country, and with the fact that a large number of consumers have little money with which to buy oranges, or anything."

C. P. Boyer presided.

S. A. BOOSTERS BEGIN STUDY OF MEXICAN ALIEN PROBLEM

A complete study of the Mexican alien problem in Orange county as it affects relief costs was under way following a meeting of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce board of directors yesterday.

A preliminary report on the problem of giving relief to aliens was given to the directors, who authorized continuance of the investigation. The research work is being done by the newly created research bureau set up by the chamber of commerce.

Will Reveal Cost
The research will seek to determine the cost in dollars and cents for support of aliens on the county relief rolls and the state relief administration rolls in this county. Cost of affording hospitalization to alien indigents, costs of court action, jail costs and juvenile delinquency costs will be determined.

Opposition to two bills now pending in the state legislature was expressed by the directors at the meeting.

Would Levy Tax
The measures, Assembly Bills 96 and 1173, provide for establishment of a new state aviation commission. Informed that aviation interests throughout the state including the Eddie Martin Airport, are opposed to the two proposed measures, the chamber directors authorized Secretary Howard I. Wood to inform state legislators from Orange county of the position taken by the Santa Ana chamber.

Assembly Bill 96 is an act to create the California Aviation Commission, to prescribe its duties and functions, to establish a California Aviation fund, and to levy a tax upon motor vehicle fuel used in aircraft.

Referred To Committee
Assembly Bill 1173 is an act to create an Aviation Division as part of and under control of the Department of Motor Vehicles; to create the office of Chief of Aviation Division and its employees; to establish a state aviation fund and to appropriate money for the administration of the proposed new aviation division. Directors of the chamber felt that the measures would only duplicate functions now performed by the federal government, and that the interests of aviation would be retarded by adoption of the measures.

At the board meeting, Director E. B. Sharpley brought to the attention of the directors Senate Bill 1115, which would amend sections of the Public Utilities Act. He said the bill would allow Proceeds from the affair will go to St. Joseph's school and parish, it was announced today by the Rev. Father Francis O'Brien, who is general chairman of the function. Members of the church expect to welcome guests from all over Orange county Tuesday night, so general has been the interest shown in the coming function.

These annual parties have proved so successful, it is said, that larger crowds take part in each successive year's hospitality. Members plan to have 100 tables of games in play Tuesday night.

Committee workers pointed out today that it is not necessary for guests to make advance reservations, since arrangements will be made to take care of all last minute arrivals.

Various Special Features Mark
Delta Theta Chi Affair

Various special features added to the enjoyment of this week's meeting of the local chapter of Delta Theta Chi sorority in the home of Mrs. Martin T. Goldsmith (Helen Lee) at 4205 East Eleventh street, Long Beach.

The occasion marked the first time that several of the group had seen the hostess' 14 months' old son, Mickey Goldsmith. The little lad and his mother are leaving soon to join their father and husband in Minnesota.

The game of hearts was played with the result that first prize of sorority stationery went to Mrs. Charles Reither, while consolation award of an organdy valentine apron was won by Miss Daisy Carr. Mrs. Reither (Adeline Lottien), the chapter's most recent bride, was presented with her sorority sisters' traditional wedding gift of a beautiful taffeta down quilt.

Mrs. Goldsmith served angel food cake and jello hearts at tables spread with dainty white linens and further appointed in valentine motif.

Plans For Friday Wedding
Inspire Various Functions

Coming as one of the climaxing features in the series of pre-nuptial affairs leading up to the marriage tomorrow night of Miss Gwen Griffin and Earl Russell Abbey, Jr., was rehearsal last night in First Presbyterian church. The bride-elect is daughter of the G. C. Griffins, and her fiancé is son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Abbey.

The ceremony will take place, at 8 o'clock, with the bride's grandfather, the Rev. C. W. Griffin of Glendale, officiating. The Rev. O. Scott McFarland, pastor of the church, will assist.

Following rehearsal was a supper party in the Griffin home, 2410 Santiago avenue, where red roses added to the charm of the room. Especially effective were the sunny josses decorating the table from which supper was served.

Gifts for the bride's attendants were sterling silver lemon forks in Miss Griffin's candlelight pattern; while Mr. Abbey's attendants received ties and key chains. Miss Lois Murray, maid of honor, will be preceded down the church aisle by Miss Dorothy Van Deusen, Mrs. Milford Carman and Miss Madeline Paxton. Mr. Abbey's attendants will include Edgar Barnes of Anaheim, best man; and Bain Alexander, Jack Schilling and Walter Henderson, ushers.

An earlier affair in the Griffin home was a charmingly-appointed breakfast at which Mrs. Griffin and her bride-elect daughter entertained in their home. They used violas in centering the dining room table. The group sat around a blazing fire on the hearth while discussing plans for the approaching wedding.

Receiving her co-workers of the county library staff one evening this week, Miss Griffin followed a tradition established by previous brides in the group. Her mother assisted in giving this troupeau affair. After the lovely articles and wedding gifts had been displayed, tea was served.

College Patrons Give Friendly Valentine Tea

Quite as charming as any of the previous events given by College Patrons association, was the tea yesterday afternoon in the women's lounge of the campus, complimenting parents of incoming junior college freshmen of the semester. The association presents these friendly affairs at the beginning of each semester to help parents and give them opportunity to meet members of the faculty.

D. A. V. Grandson

The birth yesterday of a little son of Mrs. William E. Wright (Victoria Marr), brought fully as much joy to the baby's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Marr, 2025 Bush street, as it did to the young parents. Virgil Marr is commander of Jack Fisher chapter, Disabled American Veterans, so his first grandson even takes precedence over his interest in plans for next Monday's annual military ball.

News of the arrival of his baby son had to reach the father, William E. Wright, by roundabout way. For as a member of the U. S. Navy, aboard the U.S.S. Portland, he is absent on a two weeks' cruise to the Caribbean. The baby will bear his father's name, as he is to be christened William Elmo Wright Jr.

Wedding Service Crowns
Romance Which Began
In Chicago

Arrival of Miss Peggy M. Scott from Chicago late the past week was just a few hours in advance of the quiet wedding Saturday night, February 11, at which she became the bride of William Martin, Western Union operator of this city.

The Rev. W. S. McDougall conducted the services which were given charming setting in Broadway wedding chapel. Miss Scott, who is the daughter of Mrs. Ellen E. Miss Genevieve Humiston, program chairman, is in charge of the feature. Costumes in sizes 12, 14, 18 and 20 will be shown in addition to the popular "Sixteens," it was said. Models will include the Misses Virginia Lee Graves, Josephine Butler, Ruth Curran, Martha Whitson, Marian Cruickshank, Eugenia Gilbert, Mary Tutthill, Barbara Rowland, Mrs. Harry Jackson and Mrs. J. Russel Wilson. Miss Katherine Budd will furnish the music.

Miss Ruth Rowland, general chairman of the party, has adopted a Chinese theme for decorations, since February 18 is Chinese New Year. Refreshments, prizes and other features of the party are expected to lend a special interest to activities of the afternoon.

The public is invited to attend the affair, for which reservations may yet be made with Mrs. H. M. Curry, telephone 2838.

Bridge Play Follows
Pretty Luncheon

Mrs. V. J. Anderson had planned a delectable luncheon for members of her two-table bridge club who assembled Tuesday afternoon in her home, 930 South Main street. The creamed chicken and salad of the main course were followed by the serving of heart-centered ice cream roll and cake.

Red and white sweet peas centered the luncheon table, which was appointed with valentine placecards. Forming a background for decorations was an old-fashioned nosegay presented to the hostess by Miss Fern Anderson, daughter of the home.

Scoring high in the afternoon of bridge was Mrs. Helen Stephenson of Long Beach. Guests sharing the event with members were Mrs. C. M. Nelson and Mrs. A. J. Anderson.

Auxiliary Members Meet
With Mrs. Fisher

Various events were planned by members of Women's auxiliary to Santa Ana Typographical union Tuesday evening when they met in the home of Mrs. Carl E. Fisher, 405 East Washington avenue.

An invitation was read to a benefit bridge luncheon which Long Beach Typographical auxiliary will give Friday in Houghton park of the beach city.

Next social meeting of the local group will take place February 28 at noon in the home of Mrs. Dean Lawrence in Anaheim, where covered-dish luncheon will be served. Next business meeting will be held March 14 at 7:30 p. m. in the home of Mrs. E. Y. Taylor, 218 East Edinger street. The Taylors recently moved here from Huntington Beach.

At the close of this week's meeting, Mrs. Fisher served refreshments.

De Molay Mothers

Bridge and Chinese checkers provided diversion for De Molay Mothers Circle members Tuesday evening when they were entertained in the home of Mrs. Edgar Higday, 1205 Cypress avenue. Mrs. Everett Cornwell was assisting hostess.

Serving of dessert was followed by games. Home-made candies in heart-shaped boxes were prizes rewarding Mrs. John Luxembourg, who scored high in contract bridge; Mrs. Glenn Cave, auction; and Mrs. E. E. Frisby, Chinese checkers.

Next meeting will be held March 14 in the home of Mrs. A. McCowen, with Mrs. W. T. Warren as co-hostess.

Gala Valentine Party

Sixteen of Miss Betty Lou Born's friends were her guests Tuesday evening at a gala valentine party in her home, 1346 Cypress avenue.

Talented Guest Artists
Provide Program For Appreciative Group

Interesting as winter programs have been for Ebelle Lives and Times section, its members were agreed that none had surpassed that presented Tuesday night when Mrs. Wayne Harrison and Mrs. John Newman received in the Harrison home, 1808 Heliotrope Drive.

For Mrs. E. E. Smith of Anaheim and Mrs. Dana Newkirk of Fullerton, gave that fascinating program they have developed on the life of Johannes Brahms. Mrs. Smith related the story of the great composer's life, tracing the growth of his fame. At intervals during the talk, Mrs. Newkirk illustrated phases in his development by playing his compositions, each pertaining to the era in question.

In this manner, she played a Ballade, an Intermezzo, a Rhapsody, and half a dozen Waltzes. Then when Mrs. Smith relate the charming tale connected with the Brahms "Lullaby," she concluded the program with that familiar and well-loved composition, in which the tones of a young mother's "Goodnight and goodby" form the dominant theme.

Mrs. Tevas Westgate had arranged for the two guest artists, and when introducing them to her section, presented them with pretty gifts from the group. Both remained to enjoy the sociability of the refreshment hour, when the two hostesses asked Mrs. Ben E. Tarver and Mrs. C. W. Harrison to preside at the tea urns. The table from which dainties were served had a festive valentine air with its scarlet candles deepening the note of the carnations combined with white stock in a graceful flower arrangement. This blended effectively with the sweet peas used about the home.

The 14 members received by Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Newman, welcomed a group of guests also, including with the program artists, the Misses Louise Moulton and Agnes McDougall, Mesdames Arthur Bradley, Lewis Moulton, E. J. Hanna, F. E. Moore, C. W. Harrison and Ben E. Tarver.

jimmie fidler in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 16.—Settin' Around (Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer): "The Wizard of Oz," which has been in production so long that only Hollywood veterans remember its starting date, is the most interesting picture now shooting—and certainly the most complicated technical problem. Because it is being filmed in Technicolor, which involves the use of several negatives, ordinary photographic tricks—double exposure etc.—can't be used. All of its illusions—and the script calls for hundreds—have to be produced by special devices.

For instance, the scenes in which the flying monkeys do their cavorting. For the sake of realism, they fly through a forest and actually alight, now and then, in the trees. Each monkey is outfitted with a pair of giant condor wings—Metro raided every museum in the country to get them—and an involved mechanism that makes the wings flap realistically. Of course, the monkeys do their actual flying by means of invisible wires, but guiding them through the trees is a task that would have stumped anyone excepting the resourceful engineers of Filmmville. High above the stage is a huge electric control board with hundreds of buttons, each one of which determines the movements of a monkey. The expert who operates the board spent more than a month rehearsing the required effects.

Like every other studio, M-G-M guards most of its technical secrets jealously. I think too much secrecy is a mistake, for the average fan would enjoy the picture more if he realized the magic—and the headaches—involved in its making.

CHATTER ABOUT METRO IDOLS: Frank Morgan's pet beret adds to his dash but plays havoc with his dignity. There's a suppressed bitterness about Robert Taylor that doesn't speak too well for the fashion in which Hollywood has treated a really swell guy. With Master Rooney taking a studio-hired bodyguard on his New York jaunt, I'm wondering whether the idea is to safeguard Mickey—or to restrain him. Hollywood's hot-potato usually resent foreign stars, but you'll never hear anyone say an unkind word about Meliza Korjus. What a buzz of comment and what a craning of necks when Hedy Lamarr enters the studio cafe! Myrna Loy has a freckle perched jauntily on the very tip of her pert little nose—fetching, too.

When Wallace Beery discovered that Josef Von Sternberg has been assigned to direct him in "Sargent Madden," he exploded like a fire-cracker, threatened to walk out on the picture, and was only soothed by a front-office promise to switch directors if at the end of a week's shooting, he was still dissatisfied. Three days after starting the picture, he and the great Josef were inseparable friends, ready to fight to the last breath for one another. And there's human nature in the explanation given by all the workers on the set. Both Beery and Von Sternberg are addicted to the vice of making puns—terrible puns, incidentally. For years their audiences have sneered, but now, at long last, they've found appreciation. Joe laughs uproariously at Beery's bromides, and Wally howls at Joe's bewhiskered gags. And while everyone else groans, the picture rolls smoothly on.

Bob Taylor plays a paint salesman in "Lucky Night." When I arrived on the set today, he was before the camera, trying to sell his wares—but not putting on enough high-pressure to suit the director, who after taking the scene three or four times, called for time out and gave Bob a long lecture on the fine art of salesmanship. "With the kind of an approach you're using," he argued, "what do you think you could sell?" "Paint!" grinned Bob, happily. "I worked my way through Pomona College by selling it!"

On the "Wizard of Oz" set, they were shooting one of the final scenes, the one in which the "Wicked Witch," played by Margaret Hamilton, sets fire to the Scarecrow. Every precaution had been taken. Ray Bolger, the Scarecrow, wore a suit of asbestos under his straw padding and a half-dozen firemen stood on the sidelines, armed with fire extinguishers and buckets of water. In take after take, the Witch touched the Scarecrow's costume with a torch and he burst into flame. Instantly, the cameras stopped whirling and the firemen put out the blaze. Through it all, Ray Bolger was as calm as a statue. Finally the director was satisfied and said so. Then the Witch fainted!

Jack Haley, who plays the Tin Woodman, is getting tired of his cumbersome costume. "Just today," he told me, "I opened a can of sardines. The one on top looked up at me and started to laugh. 'What are you laughing about?' I asked. 'I'm just wondering,' it cracked, 'how long YOU'RE in for?'"

Every creature on the earth is in a constant struggle for existence, and each specie acts as a check upon some other specie. If one race is freed from restraint, it multiplies beyond bounds. Man, in many instances, has paid the price for destroying Nature's balance.

THE FARMER FIGHTS

At its recent convention, The American Farm Bureau Federation, representative organization of millions of farmers, went on record with this significant resolution: "We condemn discriminatory and punitive taxes of all types designed to favor or penalize a selected group. The enactment of such legislation results in further efforts by other groups to obtain special privileges. Such unnecessary taxes and restrictions have a damaging effect by increasing costs of distribution, increasing costs to consumers, reducing total consumption, and limiting production in agriculture as well as in industry. We oppose all such tax proposals."

American agriculture has a very direct and personal interest today in the question of punitive, business-destroying taxation and the American farmer is wisely fighting legislation that blocks progress and his fight is in the interest of us all.

FOUNDERS DAY

The observance of Founders Day by Parent-Teachers groups throughout the nation this month brings forcibly to mind the great advance in understanding between parents and teachers since the organization was founded 39 years ago. Forty years ago the visit of a parent to the school during sessions amounted almost to consternation. At the present time the parent's interest in school problems is a normal part of life.

The evolution of the Parent-Teacher associations from the Mothers' Congress from which it sprang is a symbol of the modern unity of home interests. Starting with mothers the organization has expanded to include fathers as well, with fathers' nights a part of every well regulated P.-T. A. program.

Child study groups, pre-school surveys and study of the preparation of the child for school, study of the problems of handicapped children, dental surveys and clinics, supervised playgrounds, lunches for children from homes where money is scarce are included in the multiple activities of parent-teacher associations fittingly observing nearly four decades of work for the school and the home.

POLITICAL REALISM

According to Time, political realists long have harbored the idea that "expenditures (public) cannot be reduced for reasons both political and social; the United States economic system is going to support a larger and larger debt; the United States budget is not likely to be balanced by the New Deal or by a successor administration for a long time to come. Corollary of this is that the United States debt will never be paid off, and that until some drastic event—such as wild inflation—changes public opinion, the United States will not again attempt to live within its means."

Such an idea may or may not be well founded, but it is a certainty that if the so-called political "realists" who harbor it were suddenly faced with the realistic and devastating conclusion which it implies, they would instantly abandon it, with the instinct of self-preservation. They would fight to the last to halt runaway budgets. They would strive mightily to educate the public to the fact that excessive spending and the piling up of deficits indefinitely is literally suicidal.

With the federal debt nearing $40,000,000,000 and with interest charges now amounting to more than the total annual budget of a few years ago, the man in public life who advocates progressive economy is indeed the realist—not the politician who spends because he thinks the country is going broke anyway.

OUR MILITARY BALL

Probably no one phase of the variegated life offered by our own closely knitted little community of Orange county, brings us all into closer spiritual and mental communion than the plans which are of paramount importance at this season of the year, for the annual Military Ball of Jack Fisher chapter, Disabled American Veterans.

Our other interests are not strictly communal. Some of us grow citrus fruits; some grow walnuts; some are merchants, bankers, professional men, publishers. All of us are working in the community, for the community, but all of us are working along different lines. But in respect to Our Boys, those lads who left in the first fine flush of young manhood to give this country's aid to what we so firmly believed was a "War to end all wars," we are absolutely one.

That solidarity of interest which prevailed at that time makes its appearance again in each recurring February, as friends throughout the county, enter with deep interest, into plans to assist the chapter members in their plans. For Disabled American Veterans ask no other aid in their philanthropic work among families of World War veterans. But every penny from the fund amassed by the annual ball, is expended in relief work. And the need grows greater with each year. All of these things enter into the sense of personal responsibility with which the county as a whole, aids in plans for the ball and its success.

These war-torn men are Our Boys, even more definitely than they were twenty-one years ago when they left as our emissaries. Ours is the responsibility of coming to their assistance—just as they came to ours.

FAIR PLAY TO ROOSEVELT (Newsdom)

The President has again singled out the newspapers as the villains in the latest drama to be staged in Washington. He has accused some newspaper owners of deliberately misrepresenting his viewpoint on foreign affairs. That is nonsense. The newspapers merely published what was reported in Washington. As the Scripps-Howard newspapers pointed out editorially last week, "the owners didn't cover the story."

It is unfortunate that the President persists in listening to the rash counsel of his ebullient New Deal advisors. For many of those who are happily

REPUBLICAN PARTY'S MISEDUCATION

As one sees the public acquiescence in the limiting of production by labor unions, by prorates, by paying the farmers for not producing, by limiting the hours, etc., any student of American history is compelled to wonder how much of these beliefs are the result of the miseducation of the Republican party.

It will be remembered that the Republican party for years, and still does, advocate a protective tariff; they believe that the workers will be better off if they keep the wealth from coming into this country in an advantageous manner. The doctrines of the Republican's Protective Tariff simply means that we can have more by having less. It means that people believe that they are better off if they work two hours for a thing to produce it in this country than producing something else in one hour in this country and trading it for something from another country that would take two hours to make if made in this country.

With this doctrine being preached by the Republican party for years, it is only natural that the people as a whole should come to believe in collective bargaining, in prorates, in limiting hours, in destroying crops and paying for non-production. Certainly the Republican party has much to answer for, as to what their advocacy of a protective tariff has brought on to our country.

Originally republicanism came from the Latin word, "res," meaning real; meaning the real people, meaning the people who demanded more from themselves than others. If the Republicans really followed out what the name originally implied, that they demand more from themselves than from others, they would not need protecting.

It is just an illustration of how a word can degenerate and mean exactly opposite from what it was originally intended. Of course, Republicans, when the party was first formed, did stand for liberty and for real men, but later it came to be a party of special privileges. They wanted protection for the few at the expense of the consumer, claiming that the worker would be benefited by making work, claiming that the workers would be better off even if things were scarce and they had to work harder for them.

And what we are reaping today is in no small part due to this miseducation of the Republican party for the last quarter of last century and the present century.

The Republican party needs a rebirth and to go back to the real things that it originally stood for; namely, the liberty of the individual to serve humanity without coercion or restriction.

IS ECONOMICS SCIENCE OF HUMAN BEHAVIOR?

As to whether economics comes under the science of human behavior, a paragraph in the lecture given by Everett Dean Martin last summer before the Graduate School of Banking, is enlightening.

He said: "Now, as a matter of fact, economics is not a materialistic science. It is not at all a science of material things. The sciences of material things are physics and chemistry. Economics, instead of being a science of things, is really a science of human behavior; that is, so far as economics is a science. It is the scientific description of human behavior in making and owning and exchanging things. Material objects have absolutely no economic significance unless they happen to have human exchange value. It is this psychological trait of human valuation of things that gives them economic significance."

"As a science of human behavior economics should properly be classified among the psychological sciences. It comes nearer being a science of mind than a science of material objects. This observation ought to raise a great many questions about the naive economic interpretation of history and cause us to be somewhat critical of the commonly repeated dogmas of radical propaganda, that every man's ideas on the subject of liberty are an expression of his material interests."

placed on the New Deal payroll are pathological dreamers and impractical reformers. They can envision a deep-dyed capitalistic plot in every innocent item that appears in the press. And they have been notoriously successful in selling the President the idea that the newspapers, for the most part, would stop at nothing to discredit him, his family and his associates.

They have gone as far as to impugn the integrity of the New York TIMES for its choice of positions and use of headlines. Perhaps they want Mr. Sulzberger and his staff to abdicate in their favor. In short, no newspaper, no matter how reputable, escapes their irresponsible tongue-lashings.

Yet it is a matter of record that the President has been treated fairly by the newspapers. Their columns have always been open to him. He has not been the victim of a conspiracy of silence. Whenever he speaks he is given the most prominent position in the newspaper. And on important matters the full texts of his messages are printed.

It is beside the point that the majority of newspapers disagree with Mr. Roosevelt on the methods he has chosen to carry out worthy objectives. For they have confined their differences of opinion to the editorial page. Had they chosen to pursue unfair tactics during the 1936 campaign it is a moot question whether he would have been elected.

During that campaign, it will be remembered Mr. Roosevelt's talks were published widely on page one where all who so much as passed a newsstand could see. Surely if newspaper owners were the culprits some New Dealers picture them to be they could have betrayed their trust to the public by playing down the President's talks and by distorting them. Unlike the intolerant lunatic fringe which thrives on rabble-rousing and discord, they played the game even though they must have been sorely tempted to do otherwise.

Playing the game, however, is not part of the professional press-baiters' creed. Free speech and a free press are nothing more than hypocritical slogans which drop from their insincere lips with a monotony verging on boredom. They want free speech and a free press for themselves only. Anybody who has the temerity to voice his disagreement over their illusory panaceas to Utopia is immediately catalogued as a venal, grasping knave, a henchman of the unscrupulous advertiser or a tool of the vested interests. It is a theme that is without foundation. It has been worn threadbare by the spouting mountebanks and prophets of neoliberalism. Like most falsehoods it persists with an amazing obstinacy and is accepted as gospel truth by the naive, the ignorant and the credulous.

The President would be better advised if he turned a deaf ear to the hysterical inopportunities of the more irresponsible element that has outgrown its welcome in Washington.

'You Can Get Out Here'

Fair Enough

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—So, after all this discussion, we come to the question, "what kind of press would you substitute for the privately owned American press?"

Papers operated by political parties would not be objective or impartial. We know that from experience and from the nature of political speeches. Politicians never give the opposition credit for any virtues, achievements or good intentions or admit faults or errors in their own ranks. That is just the way of politics. It is like "lawing" in the court. A lawyer in court doesn't call the attention of the jury to the merits of the other side or flaws in his own arguments.

So partisan political papers might have good funnies and bridge lessons and all such package goods, but they would be one-sided in both news and editorial opinion. They would be much more one-sided than the most prejudiced of the privately owned papers, because the worst of these sheets make an occasional stab at being fair, and the worst are very few in number.

Or suppose we had a censored and state-subsidized press such as the Communists and "axis" nations have and propose for this country. The Communist and "axis" methods are alike, and any one who thinks the American papers are unfair in their treatment of news and their editorial interpretation ought to dig into a pile of that kind of press. They shoot people for expressing contrary views, or, in Germany, chop their heads off.

Or we can have the cat-and-dog type of press that clatters the stands in France and used to be seen in Spain and Prague. In Prague commercial presses were rented impartially, and the same press that kicked out a red paper one hour might tear off a run for a Nazi sheet as the next job. The French press is just terrible; it is notoriously corrupt.

Papers live on graft, bribes and subsidies, and reporters and writers, like waiters, get nominal pay and are expected to graft the rest of their living. The cat-and-dog papers lack continuity and responsibility. They can insult and tell the most horrible lies about people and, having no substance, are no more to be punished than a bad smell in the atmosphere. They can sell out to the Communists or the "axis" propaganda bureaus or to the munitions makers. They also print filth in the guise of literary realism and use shocking language in journalistic debate and justify it as free expression.

Even in this country most editors know what pressure is and dread it. Groups are forever threatening boycotts if their interests are not promoted or if their adversaries are given a fair deal. A completely fair man may be ruined by boycotts from all sides, and he is always butting and placating arrogant spokesmen who ought to be kicked downstairs and told to mind their own business. But if he doesn't use salve it's his neck. Frequently, the very people who squawk about bias in the press demand bias in the treatment of their own interests. I think Harold Ickes fits this description.

I am afraid, though, that the newspaper business in this country is in for a bad time. Mr. Roosevelt and several other New Dealers have a hate on for the American press, and papers are dropping dead here and there in the country right along and are

(Editor's Note: The following is the fifth prize article in Junior group as to "What Is A Reasonable Profit?")

What Is A Fair Profit?

Here in America, ability and talent are recognized and every opportunity and privilege for their use and application is given. Perhaps no tangible means is available for determining how much profit should be taken because all business is static and conditions are never twice the same. The entrepreneur or capitalist assumes the risks of business.

There is hardly a business which one can think of in which there are not some risks in it—be it opening a store, building a factory or railroad.

The owners of small enterprises many times have everything at stake while in large corporations, especially those who perform the executive functions, have little financial interest in the enterprise. The annual profits of a keeper of a news-stand is only a small sum, but it does not take much ability to run a news-stand, and the risk is not very great. The skill required, however, to run a very large corporation is very great and the risk is proportionally great. In this case, the profits should be also larger.

The laborer would not be able to make use of his potential productivity if it were not for the capitalist.

The difference between the returns of an enterprise and the total expenses is called the profit. The efficiency of the entrepreneur or manager is determined by his ability to make profits. One of the elements of expense is the cost of labor. Naturally, the lower the costs of labor the greater the profits. However, profit should not be exacted at the expense of the worker.

To earn a profit, there must be cooperation. Cooperation has two sides but employers frequently see but one. They believe that workmen should cooperate with management to produce goods at low cost, but they are blind to the fact that they should cooperate with the men to assist them to earn higher wages. The management and workman can obtain what they are working for—that is, low costs for the management, and higher wages for the workman, only by cooperation and working together.

I think that the profit sharing plan is impractical because one cannot in all fairness, share profits without also sharing risks.

The entrepreneur must receive a profit that will be an incentive for him to go ahead and foster new enterprises. I think that this not being replaced. Taxes and costs are high, and if the New Deal ever gets by with a scheme to disallow the deduction of advertising appropriations from the income of big advertisers it will be much worse. They will abandon their advertising or reduce it to such small volume that most of the press will be starved to death.

Why they want to kill our press or what they intend to substitute for it they have never told us and I can't guess, but I can tell you that whatever it is it won't be as good as the press of today.

This makes about four in a row on the subject of the press, so tomorrow I will throw in my change of pace—maybe heavy philosophy or how about something else?

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Roosevelt was not merely aiming at Senator Nye when he talked about the unfortunate newspaper story on the army's secret airplane detector. He was also aiming at two other senators and possibly at the secretary of war himself, at least one of whom apparently was involved in the leak regarding the army's most precious of all war secrets.

The airplane detector is an invention which no other country has developed. It detects an approaching air raid miles away and records the number of miles it is distant. The secret is so carefully preserved that the detectors are not kept in one army post, but shifted secretly from fort to fort for fear of espionage.

The only exhibition of the airplane detector to other than army officials took place at Mitchell Field, N. Y., some time ago, when the secretary of war, Chief of Staff Malin Craig, and two members of the senate military affairs committee saw a demonstration. In order to stake the demonstration, it was necessary to clear the air of all airplanes around Mitchell Field so that the incoming air raiders could be detected. Instructions were sent to air lines to this effect, and this was picked up by the New York Times, which sent a reporter to Mitchell Field.

The reporter interviewed all people leaving the field, finally got a clue that an airplane detector was being tried out. However, he got all the details surrounding the experiment wrong, so that the story he finally published did not greatly upset the army.

This story, which was very brief, attracted no attention in the United States, was overlooked by other American newspapers. But not by the British. They picked up the Times item and featured it in headlines. To the British, an air raid detector might mean salvation for London in time of war.

Meanwhile one of the Senators who visited Mitchell Field, or possibly the Secretary of War himself, apparently leaked and the White House still would like to know who did the leaking.

Japanese Ambassador Hiroshi Saito is no longer Japan's Ambassador to the United States, having been replaced by Kensuke Horiuchi. But Saito, who has spent more of his adult life in the United States than in Japan, continues to live a secluded life in Washington.

He seldom leaves his hotel. What draws him out more than anything else is his fondness for Chinese food. He frequents a Chinese restaurant near the Union Station.

Note—Few Japanese Ambassadors remain here long. If they report the truth about American policy toward Japan and urge caution on their government, they are almost sure to be ousted by the Tokyo war lords. Saito was one of the best Ambassadors Japan has sent here in years, but eventually the generals decided he was pro-American.

"It Smells Bad," Saturday, Feb. 11, says in ending, after citing irregularities in government, "But don't stop there, cut deeper."

That is just what we intend to do. Cut deeper. Remove the cause. Our members are counted by the millions, surely there is virtue to the plan. We are trying to present it to the people of the nation for consideration through the regular channels as provided by our constitution, presented by men who are intelligent, experienced experts of the different branches that it takes to make up such an act. If the plan is not right it will be found out in the final analysis, but we sincerely think that it is right, and as I have already stated, are trying to present it for consideration through the channels provided by our constitution.

In closing let me say that we granddads and mothers are united in an organized effort to promote the General Welfare, and are thinking far more of the future of our country than of our own immediate gain. There are those among us who are not blessed with the best education, those of us whose minds may not be as bright as they used to be, but our hearts are right, and we have as our leaders and advisors men and women who are second to none in the land in honesty, sincerity and intelligence. A definite and concrete plan is being presented by our leaders for consideration.

This plan is based on justice for all and sound business principles. If there are those who do not agree with this plan and think they have a better, or can suggest an improvement in our plan, you can rest assured if it is right, our leaders will meet you half way, and cooperate with you toward the end of promoting the General Welfare, but do you not realize that you are only delaying and hindering the General Welfare by attempting to tear down what others are building? Emphatically no. Then it must be the devil's, that is it is a man made cause, and can be corrected or removed.

Editor Register: Congratulations to the legislature of the state of Utah. Last week they passed a "Wives Working" bill. The measure, according to press reports, prohibits husband and wife of the same household holding appointive jobs. Perhaps Utah legislators have hit upon one way of "Sharing the Necessities of Life," by spreading a few jobs, by eliminating some of the double incomes.

Why wouldn't it be a good "plan" to try this policy in private enterprise? Seems maybe the "double income" in one household might possibly be a primary reason for unemployment in our fair land.

SERIAL STORY

WOMEN WANT BEAUTY!

BY LOUISE HOLMES
COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday Jeff meets Susie, takes her to his home. He is a handsome fellow, but he is not beautiful, but he realizes she has personality, "has something."

CHAPTER X

JEFF lived in a walk-up flat just far enough off Sheridan to be out of the high rent district. As he showed Susie to the third floor he was looking forward to his mother's reaction. His mother was a great girl, it had been her idea to bring Susie for dinner. And it hadn't been idle curiosity, either. Edna had a notion that Susie would need a friend. Edna was like that. Accustomed to wealth and a life of luxury, she had accepted comparative poverty without a whimper. Edna was what Jeff privately called a real lady.

The door was on the latch and Jeff pushed it open. "Hi, Edna," he shouted. Susie, panting from the climb, went uncertainly into the living room. It was a square room, uninteresting in architecture, homelike and charming in arrangement. Fine old pieces of furniture, lovely pictures and small things, conveniently placed tables, lamps, books, magazines, a half-open rose in a bud vase made it so. A dining room lay beyond. A voice came from a far door, obviously the kitchen.

"Coming, Jeff." With that the door swung open and Edna Bowman, a very young person considering her big nose, slender and graceful, came toward them. Her expression of pleased hospitality did not change when she viewed Susie. And Susie, who had shrunk into herself, expanded again.

"This is Susie Lambert, Edna," Jeff said. "My mother, Susie. I call her Edna because she's so young and pretty."

Edna took Susie's hand. "I'm so glad to know you, my dear," she said, not patronizingly but simply and sweet. "Lay off your hat, won't you? Perhaps you'd like to wash a bit after your trip." Susie said, "Thank you," and started clumsily for the bathroom. As suddenly as that her self-consciousness vanished and she turned at the door. "It's lovely of you to ask me for dinner," she said with her wide smile. "I appreciate it—really I do."

"We are happy to have you," Edna returned. She went to the kitchen and Jeff followed.

"WHAT do you think of her?" Jeff asked in a low tone.

Edna turned several pieces of chicken before she spoke. At last she said, "I can tell you better after dinner. At first I was actually struck dumb. I thought, oh dear—now I'm not so sure. There's a sweetness about her."

Jeff, a sort of wistful desperation. That's a lot to start with." Edna kept no maid. Ten years ago, when the depression struck, Jeff's father had been washed overboard. Two years later, exhausted and discouraged, he hadn't tried very hard to recover from pneumonia. He was only a drag on Edna and the boy, or so he thought. He'd managed to hang onto a little insurance, enough for Jeff's education and a few thousand for Edna. Wearily he had closed his eyes never to open them again.

Jeff could remember the days before the avalanche. He had been 15 when the big house had gone, when the motor cars had dwindled to one, when they had moved into the flat and Edna had gallantly attacked the housekeeping. He and Edna hadn't minded, nothing, that is, except the dreadful day when Jeffrey Bowman, Sr., gave up the struggle. The flat had never been the same since that day.

Jeff served fried chicken and whipped potatoes and cream gravy and buttered peas from the head of the table. Edna poured tea at the foot. Susie sat between them, eating a tremendous meal. Edna marveled at her capacity. Jeff urged one more piece of chicken on her, knowing full well, if Susie didn't, that it was possibly the last real meal she would see in many a long day. Doggone, it was a shame. He hoped the Chief would see fit to leave a little flesh on her bones. The girls were like dressed-up hairpins these days. Susie wasn't so bad just as she was—sort of comfortable.

SUSIE found herself conversing easily with the Bowmans, laughing at Jeff's nonsense, looking often and worshipfully at Edna. She forgot her shy reticence, forgot the firm conviction that she could say nothing worth listening to. She actually told an amusing tale. It was when Jeff remarked that a part young thing had stopped him on his way to meet Susie and asked for a lift. "I went right on with my nose in the air," he elaborated. "A smart guy doesn't pick up cuties on the corner."

"Why not, Jeff?" Edna asked. "Seems to me it would be only courteous."

"You don't know life, Edna, my gal. I'd rather pick up a high-wayman with his gun sticking out of his pocket than one of those curbstone racketeers."

Susie said, "I thought the men did the picking up."

Jeff and his mother laughed. "Well, that's done, too. Wolves of Sheridan Road, they are called. Don't ever let me hear of you stepping into a man's car."

It was flattering. Susie flushed with pleasure, forgetting that no wolf, no matter how tame, had ever accosted her and very likely never would.

"Oh, I'd know how to handle them," she said with ponderous air.

"You would—how?" Jeff asked, interested.

That was when Susie launched her story. She'd overheard it in the Waffle Shoppe.

"Well," she began, gaining confidence from their rapt attention, "the first time a man stopped I wouldn't notice him at all. If he went around the block and stopped again—I ever do that sometimes—no one ever did it to me, of course—" blushing furiously. "Well, the second time I'd say, 'No thank you,' very coolly." "And then what, Susie?" Jeff was much amused.

"If he persisted, and they do sometimes, I understand, I'd take a pad and pencil from my purse, pretty girls carry pads and pencils just in case, you know, and I'd walk around in front of his car and pretend to take his license number. They say it's a sure method, they say the men scoot away faster than anything."

JEFF and his mother were appreciative listeners. They laughed and made much of the tale. Edna thought the idea clever, Jeff pronounced it darn smart.

It was 11 o'clock when Jeff took Susie to the most luxurious of all the luxurious hotels on Sheridan. She asked timid questions and admitted that she had never stayed in a hotel. He said he'd go with her when she registered.

Knowing her shyness he suggested that she call room service in the morning and order what she wanted for breakfast. Should she tip the waiter? Yes, it was usually done. She needn't pay for her breakfast. Mr. Harker was taking care of all expenses.

Later, at the elevator, Jeff said, "I'll come for you at 8:30, Susie. When you've had your breakfast come down and wait for me in that chair," pointing to a throne-like object close at hand.

She nodded without speaking. All the old terrors had descended again. She was afraid of the elevator, horribly afraid of the bell boy, smothered by the strange, well-bred elegance of her surroundings.

Hearts Are Tough

Before a boy enters an athletic contest his heart is tested. Of course if the examining physician finds any trouble he bars the boy from entering. Sometimes the doctor leans toward discretion, as he ought, and keeps a boy off the track just to be on the safe side. If the boy is the usual healthy youngster he understands that the doctor means just what he says. "There's nothing to worry about, but to be on the safe side, to make sure we won't have any trouble, you'd better stay out today. You are growing pretty fast and we don't want any extra strain just now. I'll look you over next week again."

Now and then one of the boys is nervous. He worries over anything that happens to him that is at all unusual. When he is barred by the doctor he begins to imagine things. The doctor surely wouldn't have kept him out if he wasn't sick. His heart is bad. He knows it now. He can hear it beating. Funny he hadn't noticed. But the doctor knew right off. Heart disease. People die of that. What if he were going to die? That is likely enough. He is going to die of heart trouble.

The worst of this situation is that the boy is likely to keep this trouble to himself and gnaw at it in secret until it makes him downright ill. Boys have done this before now. One of the worst things that can happen to a boy's heart is for him to concentrate on it and worry about it. Hearts need no worrying about, and if they did small good it would do them.

Hearts are tough. They are about the toughest part of the human body. They can stand tremendous wear and tear, and they do. His heart then, is the last organ in the boy's body that should give him cause for concern. If he just lets it go about its business, as it is intended to do, it will keep right on going and attend to its own health. Worrying about it, listening to it, counting its beat, testing it to see how soon it can be speeded up and how soon afterward it can be slowed down, just brings on trouble. Hearts dislike any interference with their affairs.

Boys in their early teens are usually growing fast. Their organs are taking on new growth, expanding, in preparation for the added work they must do in the years of their maturity, coming along now so fast. It is not surprising to find a weakness or two. Not at all surprising to find an occasional boy with heart murmur. When one is discovered the boy is told about it and his parents are told too. The doctor makes a few suggestions for the boy's good and that is all there is to it. If the care is given the boy, if he accepts the restrictions put upon his activities for a little while, the heart takes care of itself and the murmur disappears.

But, if the boy does not take care if he disobeys instructions, his heart may not have the chance to build up its strength. Or, if the boy gets frightened at the words, "Heart murmur," and worries himself sick about it, his heart will not gain strength and power as it would if he left it to take care of itself.

In any case, the less said the better. Just give the heart a chance and leave it alone. It is not given to us to count our heart beats. They have been counted for us long ago, and they are cared for beyond our wisdom in the caring.
